TWO DEAD IN SUICIDE PACT

Essex Man and Woman End Lives by Poison, Young Daughter of Latter Is Seriously Ill, Pair Feared Disgrace.

ESSEX, June 10.—George Alden Gorten, a well-to-do farmer, and Mrs. Edith A. Bowe of this town are dead as a result, it is believed, of a suicide pact made yesterday while they were riding home on a trolley car, after being held in $400 each for the Grand Jury in the Eastern District Court on a statutory charge.

It is said that after the woman took poison she administered it also to her seven-year-old daughter, who is now barely alive. She is said to have two other young children.

Gorten ended his life last night, and the woman took the fatal dose early to-day.

WOMAN HANDED DEATH DOSE.

It is believed they both took strychnine, but whether or not the man supplied the woman with the deadly drug has not been learned. Yesterday Gorten tried to buy strychnine at a store in Essex, saying that he wanted it to kill crows.

The storekeeper refused to sell it to him. It is supposed he got a supply in Gloucester and handed part of it to Mrs. Bowe after they were released in court.

Neighbors think that fear, grief and shame over their predicament caused Gorten and Mrs. Bowe to decide to end all by death.

He lived on Grove street in South Essex, and was about forty-five years old. He had a wife and grown-up son.

COMPLAINED TO POLICE.

It is declared that one day last week Thomas Bowe, husband of the woman, complained to Policeman Oscar Lane of his wife's actions.

As a result it is said that the officer found Gorten and Mrs. Bowe together on Friday last, and that they were arrested on his complaint the next day.

Arraigned in court, a continuance was granted until yesterday. When the case came up on that day both waived examination and were held under bonds.

SOUTH END GROUNDS, June 10.—It was the Doves turn to show the way to the Reds in the second game between the two teams, and they gave Jack Ganzel's tribe such a hard race in the opening contest that the home fans gave them all the credit for being the size to take the proper measure of the airship champions.

The Reds fighting to hold on to the second position next to the Cubs were able to show strength beyond their real calibre which made them dangerous, but lined up on paper, there was nothing they had better than Colonel Joe Kelley could show on the card.

It was about time that some team stopped the upward rush of the Redlegs and take down some of the inflation that was evident in the makeup. It was up to the Doves to get the championship bug out of their noddles, and the proposition did not appear such a hard job if the Kelley athletes played their regular game.

The Reds had more speed abroad than some of the others who have visited here and were rated higher, which made the old vets in the Doves' forces get a hump on themselves to keep in the going.

That Ganzel and his men made a favorable impression on their first appearance here this year was attested by the cordial way they were treated by the fans, who were obliged to appreciate the willing spirit of the Reds.

Jake Weimer was slated to heave the horsehide, and Kelley wanted to pit his German slabman Dorner against him.

AMERICAN LEAGUE GROUNDS, Cleveland, June 10.—The visit of the Boston Red Sox bids fair to make more history than was manufactured in the slugging match which started the series. It is rumored about baseball headquarters that Deacon McGuire is negotiating for two of Lajoie's pitchers in exchange for Case Patten, for whom he only recently traded Jesse Tannehill. The Nap pitchers slated to be traded are Thielman and Graney it is declared by the knowing. Thielman was suspended yesterday for inability to get in condition. Graney is rather wild, but is said to have a really phenomenal set of curves. Cleveland has determined to get rid of three pitchers, waivers having been asked on Bill Latimer yesterday. He is to go to the Toledo farm if all goes well.

McGuire had Cy Young carded for to-day, while Rhoades probably will be Lajoie's final choice.

SOCIETY BRIDE FOR PROFESSOR

WORCESTER, June 10.—Professor Roger De L. French, one of the faculty of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, and Miss Amy Josephine Bemis, one of the prettiest society girls in town, were married to-day by a justice of the peace. They left the city at once. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bemis of No. 22 Lenox street, is twenty years old and has been very prominent in the First Universalist Church.

Her husband is several years her senior.

CHARGES OF PERJURY IN POLICE TRIAL

Legislative Committee Favors the Bill to Re-instate Sergeant Reagan.

An arrest of a witness on the charge of perjury in connection with the trial of Police Sergeant Cornelius F. Reagan, which resulted in his dismissal from the force by Commissioner O'Meara, it is said will be made, and it is expected that this will be followed by the reinstatement of the deposed policeman.

When Mr. O'Meara learned upon investigation of the case that Reagan had been dismissed probably upon information that was without foundation he at once took steps to have the wrong to the policeman righted.

The previous record of Reagan, who was regarded as one of the very best policemen who did duty in the Tenderloin, was taken into consideration by the Commissioner.

Report Favorably on Bill.

Reagan appeared to-day at the State House before the Committee on Cities in advocacy of a bill authorizing his reinstatement or re-employment by O'Meara. This was done by Reagan at the instance of the commissioner. The committee reported favorably on the bill.

When Reagan was dismissed Police Commissioner O'Meara had this to say about him:

"Sergeant Reagan was promoted to his present rank a year ago because of his ability and efficiency as a policeman.

"His police work since that time has fully justified his promotion."

It was charged that Reagan was guilty of conduct unbecoming a gentleman and an officer of the force. He stoutly denied it and his friends maintained that the charge could not be true.

A married woman, it was said, said that she had received a communication from Reagan. She told her husband and he complained to the commissioner. Reagan was tried before three captains of the force and found guilty.

Dismissed at Rollcall.

He was dismissed at roll call on May 20. Since that time he has been at work to re-establish himself in the eyes of his friends, and it is believed that recent developments will insure this.

BELMONT ENTRY WITHDRAWN AT GRAVESEND

FIRST RACE—Dorante, 12 to 1, won; McCarter, even place second; Bedouin 1 to 2 show, third. Time—1:46.

GRAVESEND RACE TRACK, June 10.—Things have not been coming the way of the player at Gravesend. A narrow track, sharp turns and large fields are responsible for the defeat of the best horses in a majority of instances. The card showed no relief to-day, for the fields were very large in nearly all the races. The only event with a moderate field was the Broadway stakes, and this will be reduced by the withdrawal of Fair Play and Half Sovereign, August Belmont's entry owing to the death of Oliver H. P. Belmont.

The Broadway should nevertheless furnish a good contest between Transvaal and Master Robert. Not much can be said for the rest of the races, for the quality was poor, two of the events being for maidens. Under these conditions, the betting was light, but the attendance was up to the average because the racegoer delights in fields where he will get a price.

NOTICE TO HISGEN VOTERS.

All citizens of Massachusetts who voted for Thomas L. Hisgen for Governor last Fall are requested to send their names at once to the secretary of the Independence League, No. 348 Old South building. Write your name and address on a postal card and mark it "Hisgen Voter." If you believe in Hisgen and want to help him accomplish the work he has undertaken don't fail to do this.

MORAN AFFLICTED WITH TUBERCULOSIS

DISTRICT ATTORNEY MUST LEAVE NEW ENGLAND BY DOCTOR'S ORDERS.

District Attorney John B. Moran has tuberculosis and is under orders from his physician to leave Boston.

His condition is serious. One of his lungs and his throat is affected, but by living constantly in the open air the physician says he has a chance for recovery.

It was Mr. Moran himself who made the announcement of his illness and intended departure from Boston shortly after reaching his office in the Court House just before noon to-day. He is going, he says, to the Adirondacks, in New York State, where it is hoped the climate will be beneficial.

Mr. Morans' Statement.

District Attorney Moran made the following statement after his arrival at the court house at 11:45 o'clock:

"I have been ordered by my physician to get out of this climate immediately. My physician, Dr. Reardon, last week made a microscopical examination, which revealed tuberculosis in one lung and my throat.

"His examination has since been corroborated by other physicians. Dr. Reardon's diagnosis is that I am suffering from tuberculosis. One lung is affected and the throat also. I am going within a day or two to the Adirondacks, there to stay until I die or come back well.

"I am determined to destroy the bacilli or germs or they will destroy me. So as not to be too serious about it I told my doctor, by way of a joke, that the germs may get the best of me while I am alive, but I will get the best of them after I am dead, as I will have my corpse cremated.

Commends His Courage.

"The doctor said that a man who would take such a serious matter that way had the right spirit and with proper treatment, living night and day in the open air, stood a chance of recovering.

"I shall not say where I am going, as I want to be left alone by newspaper men.

"I have gone over with Mr. Sughrue, counsel for the Finance Commission, all the evidence of crimes which the Finance Commission has discovered since last January.

"I have gone over the evidence with my assistant, Mr. Dwyer, and he will handle the special matters as soon as he can get them in shape to present to the Grand Jury in two or three months.

"Every subordinate of mine has been doing more work than they have been accustomed to do, as the office is short handed without my presence, and they have been carefully performing the extra work imposed upon them."

COMMITTEE CRUSHES OPPOSITION TO TAFT

HUGHES DELEGATES IN TWO MISSOURI DISTRICTS ARE TURNED DOWN.

CHICAGO, June 10.—The Republican National Committee to-day continued its policy of crushing opposition to Taft, and up to 1 o'clock had seated ten more Taft men.

Incidentally the committee got its first opportunity to administer a jolt to the candidacy of Hughes. In two Missouri contests where Hughes men were contestants the committee turned them down and seated the Taft delegates.

The committee then went ahead with hardly a pause and promptly seated the Taft delegates-at-large from North Carolina.

Foraker Appears.

Foraker's candidacy will make its first public appearance before the committee, when the contests in four Ohio districts will be aired.

The Taft delegates-at-Large from North Carolina were seated.

On all sides it is felt that most of the serious work is over, and that Washington's choice is merely to be ratified a week from next Thursday.

There are serious moments, however, and all this is not to be taken to mean that there will not be some little passages at arms before the job is well through with.

For instance, there was the usual condemnation of the brutal methods of the National Committee in deciding the contests. Louisiana was considered in its entirety, so was Mississippi, as well as the contests from the third, fourth, fifth and eighth districts from that State and the tenth district of Missouri.

This embraced a total of thirty-six delegates in all, and the victory went to Taft in each instance.

Compromise—Both Sides Taft.

True, the compromise suggested went through, the contestants being each given half a vote in the convention, but when you consider that it was a family quarrel and that both delegations were Taft, the "steam roller" men lost nothing in accepting the compromise which was done through a resolution introduced by Chairman New, providing not only for the seating of both delegations, but pledging the new national committee through its chairman and secretary to effect a complete re-organization of the party in Louisiana.

The greater significance that attaches to this compromise is that it marks the beginning of the effort to placate the negro vote, as the fight in Louisiana was a clean cut one between the "Lily whites" and the blacks. The compromise greatly enhances the interest in the North Carolina contest, yet to be heard, where the issue is the same, though intensified a hundredfold by the statements made by the North Carolina negro contestants, in which they challenge the Republican party to choose once and for all between force and intimidation and the negro vote of the country.

To-day, while J. B. Kealing of the Fairbanks phalanx, was walking in the Auditorium lobby a mysterious stranger tapped him on the shoulder and said:

"I can give you a tip to this effect: The decision in the Tenth Missouri case will cost Taft at least six votes in the Missouri delegation. I know what I am talking about, and I tell you that the Missouri boys love fair play, and they won't stand for such jobs as that one that was pulled off."

The stranger refused to give his name. Kealing said he knew the man, but refused to disclose his identity. But he smiled broadly and said:

"Let me add this to what you have just heard; Taft will not get all the votes that are being claimed for him. I know personally that delegates who were instructed for Taft are coming here to vote against him. I have letters from them to that effect."

BOSTON MAN HEADS ADVANCE GUARD OF CORTELYOU BOOM

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Secretary of the Treasury George B. Cortelyou is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Vice-President, and his advance guard, led by Assistant Secretary Louis Coolidge of Boston, will start to-day for Chicago. His press bureau states:

"Indications are multiplying that Secretary Cortelyou will be advanced by the Roosevelt and Taft forces at Chicago as their candidate for Vice-President."

Politicians are wondering what action will be taken at the White House regarding this announcement. It would not surprise them if a sharp denial of the claim was authorized by Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Cortelyou will be presented to the convention as a New York candidate, his home being in that State.

M'GIRR AGAIN HEADS ALLIED TRADES COUNCIL

WORCESTER, June 10.—J. S. McGirr of Revere, was re-elected president of the New England Allied Printing Trades Council at the second and last day of the fourteenth annual convention held here to-day. The five vice-presidents elected are: B. J. Keiveny, Lawrence; J. F. O'Brien, Boston; W. H. Sullivan, Worcester; E. F. Gildin, Lynn; Augustus Seaver, Cambridge. P. H. McMahon of North Adams was elected secretary-treasurer.

Resolutions commending President Roosevelt for his stand against the trusts were passed; also resolutions condemning Secretary Taft for injunction rulings. The convention condemned the present movement for industrial schools, advised the organization of a National Allied Printing Trades Council, expressed sentiment against allowing an employer to join a union, instructed members to refrain from teaching boys trades other than regular apprentices and expressed sympathy for Dennis Driscoll and for the family of Edward Cohen.

OLD FENIAN LEADER DEAD

CHICAGO, June 10.—Colonel John Finnerty, editor of the Chicago Citizen, lecturer, politician, soldier and renowned as a leader in the Fenian raids on Canada in the late sixties, died to-day at his home after six months' illness.

Colonel Finnerty was born in Galway, Ireland, in 1848. He became identified with the Irish revolutionary movement when a boy and was forced to leave the country. On arriving in America he joined a New York volunteer regiment and served until the close of the Civil War. Colonel Finnerty served in Congress from 1883 to 1885. He lectured in all the large cities of the country and was known as a virile writer.

RAISE POLICE PAY.

At a meeting of the Salem Board of Aldermen to-day the order providing for the salary increase of the police force was passed over the Mayor's veto. The increase will net a 10 per cent. advance to the policemen.

HARVARD CREWS FAST IMPROVE IN WORK

HARVARD QUARTERS, Red Top, Ct., June 10.—The river was much smoother this morning and the various Harvard crews were all taken down river where Coach Wray, who was in a single scull, gave them about an hour's work out. The varsity eight were sent down for about two and a half miles in several short stretches, while the freshmen eight did not go below Cowpoint. Both of the eights did some excellent rowing during the morning work and show much improvement over their work at Cambridge.

The four-oared crews worked out in the cove between Red Top and Cowpoint under the lee of the eastern shore. John Kennedy said the river looked so good to him that he sent his two eighths down river as far as the naval station and worked them out for an hour. This was the first time this season that the Yale crews have been down as far as Red Top or below their own quarters.

Among the visitors at Red Top this morning were Robert F. Herrick '90 and J. C. Warner '82, who watched the morning practice. Another visitor was C. Oliver Iselin of New York, whose son, Oliver Iselin, Jr., is assistant manager of the Harvard freshman crew. Mr. Iselin came round from New York in his yacht, the old cup defender Vigilant. The yacht will remain off Red Top until after the big race. On Sunday the freshman crew will be taken aboard of her for an excursion in Long Island Sound.

The morning practice of the crews will be of a very light character until the examinations, which are now being conducted by two proctors from the university at Cambridge, are finished.

PRINCESS IS JAILED AS A BLACKMAILER

MEXICO CITY, June 10.—Princess Mary Chantoon, who says she is the wife of a hereditary prince of a Burmese State, is in Belem prison, charged with blackmailing. With her is a young Englishman of good appearance and pleasing address, who gives the name of Armitage Wodehouse Pearce.

MORE HOURS OF WORK.

WHITINSVILLE, June 10.—The Whitin Machine Works have started on a weekly working schedule of fifty hours, an addition of five hours to the schedule which has governed operations for several months.

'JOE' LEITER WED BEAUTY AT NOON TO-DAY

Fair Bride, Miss Juliette Williams, Attired in Modified "Sheath."

TO HONEYMOON IN AUTO

By Boston American Leased Wire.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Miss Juliette Williams and Joseph Leiter were married at noon to-day at the house of the bride's parents in the Connecticut apartment house. The Rev. Fr. Buckey of St. Mathew's Church performed the ceremony.

The bride was given away by her father, Colonel John R. Williams. Miss Frances Williams attended her sister as bridesmaids. Roman Baldwin, son of the late C. C. Baldwin and a Harvard classmate of Mr. Leiter, acted as best man.

Countess Absent.

Only members of the families were invited to the wedding. Mr. Leiter's sisters, the Countess of Suffolk and Mrs. Colin Campbell, were not able to be present on account of important engagements in Europe.

The bride was robed in the time-honored white satin, princess style, in a modified directoire fashion, with an empire back and a graceful drapery of old mechlin lace which once belonged to her grandmother. This was used as a sort of bertha across the front, with the ends tied at the back, where the immensely long train started between the shoulders and hung on either side of the box pleat of the train to the bottom of the skirt. A delicate vine of orange blossoms was outlined about the edge of the skirt and up the left side where the skirt fastened. The neck of the bodice was cut in square Dutch fashion, a yoke of tucked white chiffon filling in the opening.

The only ornament of this very distinctive bride, who is one of the fairest of blondes, was a string of superb pearls, one of the gifts of her fiance. Her veil was of tulle.

Striking Costume.

A striking portion of her costume was the sleeves, which were made small and close fitting, quite in contrast to the loose mandarin sleeves so much in vogue this Spring. They were of elbow length, fitted closely under the arm any open on top, showing a fall of the same mechlin lace as the bertha. A ruffle in pointed style finished the edge of the elbow.

The two sisters of the bride were in white tulle and carried big bouquets of white sweet peas and lilies of the valley. The bride's bouquet was a combination of lilies of the valley and orchids. Mrs. Leiter, mother of the bridegroom, wore black lace and diamond, while Mrs. Williams, the bride's mother, wore gray silk trimmed with point lace.

The drawing room, where the ceremony took place before a flower prie dieu, was decorated with June roses and Spring flowers.

150 at Bridal Feast.

To this room came Mr. Leiter, attended by his best man, Roman Baldwin. Then to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, Miss Williams entered the room, preceded by her two sisters, Dorothy and Frances, acting respectively as flower girl and bridesmaid.

After the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast at auscher's, at which about 150 guests were present.

Among them were Mrs. Cornelius Hewitt and Miss Hewitt of St. Louis, respectively grandmother and aunt of the bride; Mrs. Leiter, mother of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Siegel of New York, the Misses Dorothy and Frances Williams, schoolgirl sisters of the bride, and Roman Baldwin, Mr. Leiter's best man.

Honeymoon in Auto.

Mr. Leiter and his bride left for a bridal trip in his big gray touring car. Their first destination is unknown, though it is not improbable that they will spend a few days at Friendship, the country home of the JoJhn R. McLeans, on the Tonley-town road, near Washington.

Mrs. Leiter, mother of the groom, has been staying in her Washington mansion on Dupont circle since Tuesday morning. She will leave to-morrow for Manchester-by-the-Sea, where she has leased a handsome estate, and wher she will be joined by the bride and bridegroom after the close of the two national conventions which they will attend, making the trip from one to the other in their touring car.

To Get Down To Details.

A cake of P. & G. Naphtha Soap is 4½ inches long, 2½ inches high and nearly 2 inches wide.

The color of it is white.

That is one, and only one, of the evidences of its superiority.

P. & G. Naphtha Soap is harder than any other naphtha soap; that is, it will last longer.

It is made of better materials than any other naphtha soap. As a consequence, it will do more work; do it quicker, do it easier, do it better.

"CONSPIRACY" CRIES WIFE IN FALES SUIT

SON, CO-RESPONDENT, ADMITS HIS FATHER'S CHARGE IN SENSATIONAL DIVORCE ACTION.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 10.—By deposition, Le Roy Fales, son of the millionaire manufacturer, Warren Fales of Pawtucket, to-day admitted in the Superior Court before Judge William S. Sweetland that his father's charges in naming him as co-respondent in the divorce suit against his wife, Catherine Howard Fales, were true.

"This whole thing is a conspiracy against me," cried the pretty young wife to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day, the tears raining down her cheeks. "They're all banded against me. I have no friends here. Mr. Fales follows me about everywhere I go. He hires detectives to follow and spy upon me."

Few persons were present when the sensational cross-suits between Fales and his beautiful wife, who had been Catherine Howard of the Edna May Opera Company, were called before Judge Sweetland for the filing of the suits, as well as the remarkable charges made by such of the litigants had been kept a secret.

The former actress and chorus girl who but a few years ago had been the talk of the Great White Way was present as her step-son's deposition was read. Not a mite daunted was she as she sat radiant and attractive in black and white check tailor-made suit, white veil, white gloves, a stylish black and white Merry Widow hat.

Fales Interested Spectator.

Fales, himself, the head of the Fales & Jenck Company, manufacturers of cotton machines, watched every move of the lawyers and hung on every word they uttered with rapt attention. He was dressed in a light gray business suit. With his florid face, snow-white hair and keen, prominent features, he was a striking character in the court room.

His boyish looking son of twenty-two, named by his father as co-respondent, ostensibly employed by his father as assistant foreman in the big Pawtucket mills, heard his remarkable confession read in the courtroom without betraying the slightest emotion.

The son's own mother, who got a divorce some years ago, now the wife of a Providence physician, was not in the courtroom. That it was through her advice that he told his father of his friendship for his stepmother and became the principal co-respondent his deposition narrated.

United States District Attorney Charles A. Wilson appears for Mr. Fales, while Attorney F. A. Farrell represents the pretty young second wife, who accuses her husband of the same offenses that he has laid at her door.

Attorney Farrell, when the case was opened, asked for a postponement on the ground that he had not been able to secure the depositions of Abe Kaffenburg, and an opera singer named Stiles, the two other co-respondents named in the case by Mrs. Fales. His attempt was fruitless, as the judge ordered the case to proceed.

Kaffenburg is now in Paris. He has been travelling with "Abe" Hummel, his uncle, since the latter's release from prison. The singer, Stiles, is not well known. It is thought he is in London.

Wife Accuses Fales.

In her suit Mrs. Fales accuses her husband of friendship with Mrs. Fitts, his housekeeper, and in his deposition the son, LeRoy, helped to substantiate her charges under examination by her counsel.

LeRoy Fales, in his sworn testimony, which was read as the story of the main and first witness, told of being in New York at the yacht races with his father and his pretty stepmother in 1903. He said that one afternoon he was not feeling well; that his father had gone to the races and his stepmother attended him in his room at the Waldorf Astoria. She mixed him milk punches and attended him all of that afternoon.

Telling about his father, in the deposition, he admitted to the attorneys for the wife that his father's housekeeper was a Mrs. Fitts and that they had occupied adjoining rooms in the father's home in Pawtucket. He said he had seen them twice at theatres and he declared that they were friendly.

Now LeRoy lives with his own mother at No. 139 Benevolent street, this city. He admitted that he had received many letters from his step-mother, Catherine Howard Fales, as many as three in one day at times. He tore them up at his mother's advice, he said. He told her the truth and, at her suggestion, he alleges, he told the story to his father.

Society Woman Witness.

Mrs. Julia R. Morgan, a New ork society woman, dashing in garb and appearance, said she met Mrs. Fales in New York in August, 1907, at the Hotel Cadillac at a supper party. On another occasion, she deposed, after a theatre party she was in her room at the Hotel Woodward, and she heard Mrs. Fales and "Abe" Kaffenburg talking together in an adjoining room. She positively denied that Fales had ever tried to bribe her to say nothing about the affair.

After the court adjourned for luncheon, Mrs. Fales was seen by the BOSTON AMERICAN reporter at her hotel. She was completely unnerved and the tears coursed down her pretty cheeks as she talked about the case.

"Please don't say where I am stopping," she pleaded. "I will not talk with you unless you promise to oblige me in this. I am persecuted, persecuted, persecuted by that man.

"Conspiracy," Cries Wife.

"I am so nervous and worked up that I don't know where to begin. The whole thing is a conspiracy against me.

"I am alone in this case. I am alone in this city. I have no friends here; there are none to counsel with, none to fall back upon for comfort.

"Mr. Fales follows me about everywhere I go. He bribes my servants, and he influences everybody against me. Don't for anything let him know where I am, as he follows me to all of the hotels and calls the different hotels up over the telephone telling them he will not pay my bills.

"He followed me to London when I was with the Edna May company, imploring me to marry him. He would give me no peace, no rest. He liked me more than I ever liked him. He is just crazy now to get rid of me, more anxious than he even was to marry me.

"He hires detectives to follow me and to spy upon me wherever I go. He even cut my allowance down a year ago from $200 a month to $50, and now I can hardly get along. I have hardly enough to live upon. I am all alone here now. They are all banded against me, and so far the case looks pretty black, as I look at it."

Mrs. Catherine Harris Fales, when a member of the May company, was a noted stage beauty. She has black hair, eyes that are limpid in their depths and of the richest black in the world and, at the age of twenty-seven years, is known as one of the most beautiful women in New York.

Seven years ago Fales was on a business trip to New York. He drifted into the New York Theatre. Edna May's opera company was playing at the house, and in the chorus was a pink-cheeked, beautiful girl about twenty. Fales was smitten at sight. Night after night, during the engagement of the company, he could be seen in the same box, his eyes riveted upon the little girl in the chorus who had won his heart.

Gave Bride Mansion.

He haunted the theatre, and at last received an introduction. Fales followed the company to London, proposed, was accepted, and married Miss Harris. He brought her back to New York. He purchased a $40,000 estate on Long Island, which he gave to his bride as a wedding present.

Mrs. Fales makes the charge that the suit has not been brought on the initiative of her husband, but through the instigation of another woman, who, Mrs. Fales states, is at the bottom of her entire domestic troubles.

JURY FREES CALLELA OF KIDNAPPING

Pretty Josephine Hennesey accused Gennaro Calleli of kidnapping her on the night of May 15 at the muzzle of a revolver and forcing her to New Hampshire, but the jury before which the case was tried in the Superior Criminal Court to-day rendered a verdict of not guilty after Judge Pierce had stated that the woman's own testimony was sufficient to warrant an acquittal. In fact, the Judge told the jury that if they did not acquit he would set the verdict aside.

The girl was hysterical and dramatic by turns while a witness against the prisoner.

She claims that one night when she was returning home from an entertainment in Malden she met Callela, who, by threatening her with a revolver, frightened her into accompanying him.

According to testimony, the woman and Callela went to Boston and then to Lynn and later to the Chamberlain Hotel in Milton, N. H. While the couple were at this house the man went out to get shaved and Josephine Hennesey claims to have taken that opportunity to get out of his power. Her charges caused Callela's arrest in Milton and he was brought here for trial.

AGAIN INCREASE PRICE OF MEAT

NEW YORK, June 10.—Meat prices took another jump to-day of two cents, making the highest June record of twenty-five years. This makes an increase of 20 per cent. in two months. Porterhouse steaks are now selling at 30 cents; sirloin steaks, 25 cents; spring lamb, 22 cents; first cut roast, 23 cents. Many poor families are now eating vegetables instead of meat as vegetables this year are exceptionally low.

LYNN VICTIM OF WRECK IMPROVES

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 10.—Mrs. Margaret Trackler of Lynn, Mass., one of the victims of the wreck on the Wabash railroad at Stevensville, Ont., yesterday, was reported improving to-day. She will be able to leave the hospital in a few days.

"PADDY THE PIG" DEAD IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 10.—Clarence O'Brien, a Tenderloin saloon keeper, who was known to sporting men from Maine to California as "Paddy the Pig," died to-day. He weighed more than 300 pounds, and came to New York from Troy thirty years ago.

D. A. R. GIRL WEDS LAWYER

Miss Frances L. Marden, daughter of Henry A. Marden of Dorchester, was married to-day to William L. F. Gilman, Harvard '95, son of John E. Gilman of Roxbury. The ceremony took place in St. Leo's Church, Dorchester, and was performed by Rev. Francis J. Butler, pastor of the church. Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast and reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, No. 38 Columbia road, Dorchester.

Miss Marden is the descendant of one of the oldest colonial families. She is a Daughter of the American Revolution. William Gilman is a prominent Boston attorney, a member of the Sons of Veterans and the Roxbury Historical Society. His father is a member of the Soldiers' Relief Commission at the State House.

BARS CHILDREN AS WITNESSES IN DIVORCE SUIT

Judge Fessenden Refuses to Listen to Testimony of Little Girl in Marital Tangle.

WOMAN TELLS OF CRUELTY

"I do not believe that children should testify against either of their parents in a divorce case," said Judge Franklin G. Fessnden to-day in commenting on his action in not allowing City Solicitor James of Chelsea to put nine-year-old Ruth Walker on the witness stand to testify against her father.

The case which brought forth these remarks was that of Mrs. Frances J. Walker of Lowell, who asked that she be freed from her husband, Eden C. Walker, an employe of the Boston & Maine Railroad. Mrs. Walker charged cruel and abusive treatment and she was accompanied into court by her father, John Ferris, a well-to-do citizen of Dracut, and by her pretty nine-year-old daughter Ruth. Following the mother's testimony the attorney offered the child as a witness to corroborate the mother's testimony concerning attacks made by Mr. Walker. Judge Fessenden promptly said that he did not want to have the child placed on the stand.

Threatened Her with Death.

Mrs. Walker testified that she was married in the Episcopal church at Lowell, June 29, 1895. "My husband was abusive in his language and actions nearly all of our married life. He threatened to kill me repeatedly. Last June he went down cellar and got an ax, with which he threatened to kill me. I escaped from the house and went to relatives.

"The last time I lived with him was last August. I left him because he struck me without provocation while I was washing the supper dishes."

Mrs. Walker was given a decree nisi and custody of her child. The case was not contested.

Drank Three Quarts per Day.

Mrs. Mary Donald of No. 6 Kirkland street, South End, was given a divorce from her husband John on the ground of confirmed habits of intoxication. Dr. John P. Simpson of Chambers street, one of the witnesses, testified that Donald could drink three quarts of whiskey in a day without showing it. "I have known him to drink a pint of whiskey in twenty-five minutes, your honor," said the physician.

Mrs. Donald broke down on the witness stand while telling how her twelve-year-old child Mary was killed three months ago while gathering coal on the Boston & Albany Railroad tracks. She was given the custody of her two children, William, ten, and Hope, five.

A wedding certificate torn in bits figured as an exhibit in the case of Charles F. Hewett of Charlestown. He was granted a divorce from his wife Mabel for desertion.

FIVE BANDITS BEAT AND ROB MAN IN REVERE

Five highwaymen held up and robbed Edward J. Blundell of No. 72 Calumet street, Revere, near the Revere street station of the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad at an early hour to-day.

Mr. Blundell, who is night manager for a Boston cab concern, left Boston on the 2:20 ferryboat for Revere. He alighted alone at the Revere street station at 2:40 and had started across the lonely field which separates the railroad station from Revere street.

Five men, every one of whom was young, according to Blundell, swooped down upon him from several directions. He was pounded, knocked down and overpowered before he could call for help. Then the highwaymen rifled his pockets, taking a silver watch and chain, two $1 bills, three twenty-five-cent pieces and a diamond pin containing seventeen diamond chips.

As soon as the men got their plunder they scattered, some running along the railroad track toward Lynn and others along the boulevard.

Mr. Blundell staggered to his feet and went to the Metropolitan Police Station nearby and told Sergeant Bickford of the affair. The sergeant with a squad of police started out to look for the men. By the moonlight they could see the five men, who had met again, running at top speed in the direction of Lynn.

Bickford telephoned the Revere and Lynn police and at 4 o'clock this morning the Lynn police arrested a man on suspicion. Mr. Blundell, with Patrolman Davis of the Revere police have gone to Lynn to determine, if possible, whether the man under arrest was one of the highwaymen.

Blundell was able to give a fairly good description of his assailants because of the bright moonlight at the time of the hold-up and because the job was pulled off near an electric light.

A cooling breeze that sprang up this forenoon held out promise to Bostonians that there would be a slight let-up from the oppressive heat that has held the city in its torrid grip for two days.

The sun shone down from a cloudless sky of deep blue, and men and women both reached the city in their most carefully selected Summer bib and tucker.

At 8 o'clock on the street level the thermometer registered 71 degrees, but the colorless fluid began to sizzle upward right away, and had moved fifteen points by 2 o'clock. The breeze, however, led to the hope that prostrations would be fewer to-day than yesterday, when seven persons fell victims of the killing rays.

The weather forecaster promises that it will be cooler to-night—a duplication of the weather last evening, when light shawls and coats were very comfortable on the verandas.

HURL CHARGES OVER MERGER BILL IN HOUSE

"WALKER BROKE PROMISE," SAYS WHITE; "I DENY IT," CRIES WALKER.

Representative Norman White of Brookline, anti-merger, charged in the House of Representatives to-day that House Chairman Joseph Walker of the Committee on Railroads had broken a promise to support the "shall sell" bill of the Anti-Merger League, and instead, had signed the unanimous report in favor of the New Haven "may hold" bill. A change in the bill was made, White said, because the New Haven wanted it.

Four feet from White, Walker of Brookline jumped to his feet and shaking his fist in White's face, shouted:

"I deny that I ever agreed to the Anti-Merger League bill; you know I never did."

"And when the Anti-Merger League bill was shown to counsel for the New Haven Railroad," said White, "counsel for the New Haven insisted that it be so changed as to allow the New Haven to hold the stock."

Garcelon of Newton, acting Speaker, took the floor away from them and the incident was over for the moment.

"Talked with Byrnes."

The House adopted an order to-day providing that the week "beginning to-day" shall be regarded as the last week of the session.

Just before recess, Walker of Brookline, returned to the White charge.

"It is true," he said, "that I had many talks with Vice-President Byrnes of the New Haven, Counsel Choate of the New Haven, and Counsel Brandeis of the Anti-Merger League. I propose to talk to whomever I please, wherever I please, and whenever I please. The intimation that the New Haven wrote this bill, or any part of it, ought never to have been made.

"The only basis for the gentleman's charge is that I did tell Mr. Brandeis that I saw little difference between the two bills. I told him I would take his bill to the committee, and give it further thought."

"Promised Brandeis"

Mr. White had said that Walker's promise to support the bill was made in the office of Louis D. Brandeis, "before three witnesses."

"I think it possible," he said in answer to Walker's final reply, "that the gentleman believes just as Counsel Choate of the New Haven believes. I insist, nevertheless, that this bill was changed because the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad wanted it changed."

Dodging a vote until they are sure it will be "right," friends of the "merger" bill continued their campaign in corridors, homes, offices and hotels, while other friends debated with anti-mergerites in the House of Representatives.

John N. Cole (Democrat-Republican) of Andover, speaker of the House and champion of the merger bill, was again out of the limelight for hours. This time his gavel was surrendered to William F. Garcelon, lawyer, of Newton, a member of the Democratic-Republican Committee on Railroads which unanimously reported the "merger" bill. When Cole was behind the scenes yesterday it was another mergerite, Soliday of Dedham, who filled in for him.

Plead for "Study."

Outside of the Walker-White collision, the discussion followed its usual form, with friends of the merger urging that the bill is "neither fish nor flesh, nor good red herring"; that it is "neither merger nor anti-merger"; that it doesn't do a blessed thing but legalize the New Haven purchase (contrary to law) of 110,000 shares of B. & M.

The mergerites continued their plea for "investigation," for "study."

"You want us to put the New Haven on probation," said Representative Sheenan of Boston, "after it has many times broken its parole. It ought to be surrendered to the court, as other offenders are."

GORE MAY SEE WITH ONE EYE

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Senator Thomas P. Gore, who has been blind for twenty-seven years and who has been in a hospital here since the adjournment of Congress, taking treatment, had his vision restored for the space of thirty seconds subsequent to an operation. Senator Gore could see his cuff with his left eye.

It is thought that Senator Gore may recover the sight of his left eye.

ANNA TO WED IN ENGLAND

PARIS, June 10.—Friends of Mme. Gould said to-day that her wedding to Prince Helie de Sagan would take place in England. While she would much prefer to be married in France, it is said that she is afraid of an unpleasant incident, resulting from the anger of Count Boni de Castellane, her divorced husband, between whom and de Sagan, his cousin, there is the bitterest enmity.

CUPID'S DART CONCEALED IN MINCE PIE

Worcester Veteran Wed Matron Who Baked "Best He Ever Ate."

ARE NOW ON HONEYMOON

Colonel John H. Bartlett, one of the best-known Grand Army men of the State, who lived at No. 26 Salem street, Worcester, and Mrs. Susie J. Reese of No. 280 Green street, Cambridgeport, are to-day spending their honeymoon in scenes far removed from their former homes and talking about the wonderful mince pies the bride made, and which caused the colonel to fall in love with her.

Now the colonel knows that he will have pies of his liking the rest of his life, and that may be for many years, for he is just sixty-four, while his bride is sixty.

Met Fate at Pie Social.

It was at a pie social last Winter that Cupid shot the dart. The gallant Colonel devoured a pies, the most luscious that he had ever tasted. He must meet the baker of the pie. They were introduced and the Colonel found occasion to eat many more of the pies. Through his stomach his heart was won, and no wonder, for Mrs. Reese is tall and stately and an intelligent, attractive matron.

To-day the scattered old shoes and the showers of confetti at Mrs. Reese's home in Cambridgeport tell the rest of the story, for the happy couple are now far away enjoying their honeymoon.

They kept their secret well, too, and their friends will to-day read of their nuptials with complete surprise. Mrs. Reese is a great temperance worker and has always said she had no use for men except to save them from drink—that is, until she met the Colonel.

Served on Tanner's Staff.

As a coincidence, the Worcester friends of Colonel Bartlett know well how active a worker he has been in the cause of no-license which was finally won at the last city election in Worcester. Mrs. Reese is the mother of seven children, while the Colonel's family numbers just that many, too.

Colonel Bartlett was formerly on the staff of James Tanner when the latter was national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic. He also served as aide-de-camp to National Commander Blackmer last year. When he lived in Worcester he taught a singing class at No. 26 Salem street.

FINED $15 EACH UNDER MILK LAW

There were three convictions in the South Boston Municipal Court to-day for selling impure milk. Michael F. Cahill of No. 37 Dorchester street, William Harriss of No. 281 Dorchester street and Bessie Higgar of No. 80 Fourth street were fined $15 each by Judge Fallon. J. O. Jordan of the State Board of Health Inspection Bureau was the complainant in the three cases.

SCORCHER FINED $15.

Louis Perry of Dighton, employed as a chauffeur by William Lovering of Taunton, was fined $15 by Judge Grover in the Dedham District Court to-day for overspeeding his machine at Norwood on June 5.

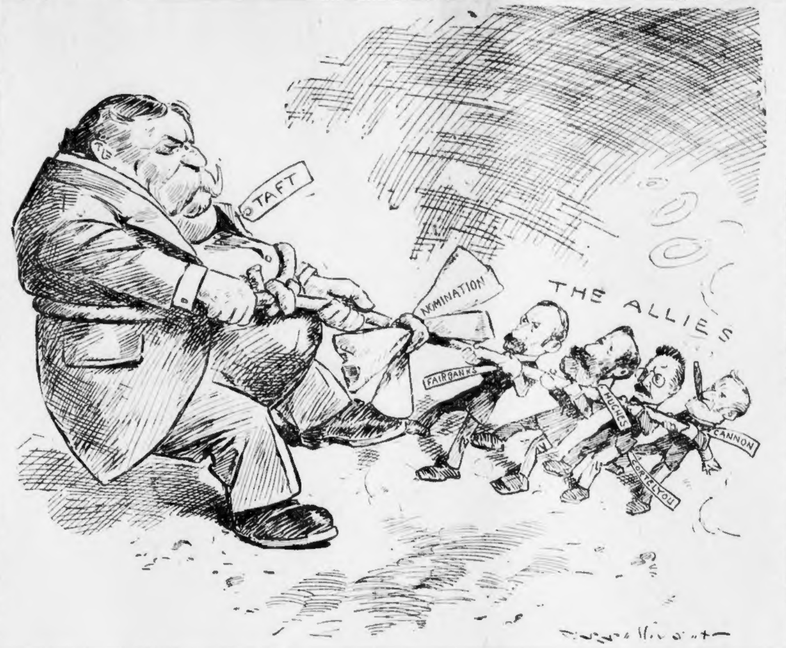
FINE CHANCE FOR "THE ALLIES"



VALET TESTIFIES FOR RAYMOND HITCHCOCK

DECLARES ACTOR TRAPPED GIRLS AND MADE THEM DENY STORIES.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Denying absolutely that Raymond Hitchcock in the "house with the green blinds" on Forty-first street had attacked Helen von Hagen and Elsie Voecks on the night they allege, Herman H. Reupke, the actor's valet, to-day took the stand.

The valet declared he had been in the service of Hitchcock for three years.

Controverting the girls' stories, he declared that "Mr. Chanler" had not visited the Hitchcock home at Great Neck on the night the Voecks and Von Hagen girls were there.

It is the prosecution's contention that Hitchcock took the children to his home after the performance Thursday evening and kept them there till the following morning. This also was denied by the valet, who swore that Hitchcock was not at his country home at all on the Thursday in question.

On Trunk Behind Screen.

Taking up the incidents in the "house of the green blinds," Attorney Steuer led his witness to declare that he had rented the room to which Hitchcock took the two little girls for the purpose of trapping them regarding stories they were circulating.

"I rented the room, I was seated on a trunk behind a screen when Hitchcock came in with the girls," he said. "Hitchcock asked the girls why they had been telling stories about him and his friend Chanler, but both denied having done so.

"Hitchcock remained with the girls only twenty minutes and then he told them they could go.

"When the girls had gone Mr. Hitchcock and I went downstairs and while he went outside I settled the bill."

Judges Back Comedian.

Arthur Huntoon, night clerk of the Hotel Flanders, identified a hotel register which bore the signature of Hitchcock on the night when he is alleged to have met the Voecks and Von Hagen girls outside the New Montauk Theatre in Brooklyn.

Justice Olmsted of the Court of Special Sessions then testified that he had known Hitchcock twenty-seven years in New York.

"I will vouch for his mortality," he said.

An affidavit made by Helen von Hagen, absolving Hitchcock from any violence toward her, was placed in evidence.

Justice Peter A. Hendricks followed with evidence as to Hitchcock's character and reputation.

The indications to-day are that the accused actor will know his fate by to-morrow. He proved a fairly good witness in his own behalf.

Says Girls Pursued Him.

When Hitchcock was called to the stand he at once was questioned regarding his acquaintance with the girls.

"Did you ever take Elsie Voecks and Helen Von Hagen riding in an automobile, as they have testified?"

"Yes, but not in the way they have told. I never asked them to ride. They were constantly hanging around the stage door and asking for a ride. I told them on this occasion to ask their mothers and get some wraps, and when they returned they said their mothers had consented and I took them to Great Neck."

"When did you next see these two girls?"

"It was on the following Sunday, about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. I had been out sailing and when I returned they were sitting on the lawn. When I started toward them they ran away, and I chased after them, but they disappeared."

"Did you see the girls again that day?"

"Yes, about 10:30 o'clock at night. I found them sitting on the front porch. I upbraided them for being in Great Neck at such an hour and they told me that their mothers knew where they were and had no objection to their being with me. There was nothing for me to do but house them for the night, and I sent them to a room for the night. They seemed to be frightened, for they barricaded the doors and windows."

Sent Them Home.

"Did you make any attempt to get into their room, as she has testified?"

"Never in my life," said the witness, dramatically—a phrase he repeatedly used in making denials.

"I saw the girls in the morning," continued the witness, "and gave them money to go home."

"Were you ever in a room in West Forty-first street or any other place with Helen von Hagen and Flora Whiston?"

"Never in my life. Helen and Elsie, when I was called out of the Lambs' Club to meet them, had their faces painted and eyebrows pencilled, and I dismissed them quickly. I told them I would meet them at about 8 o'clock at Forty-first street and Sixth avenue."

"Why did you desire to meet them?"

"I had been absent from New York and had been informed that these girls had been circulating scandalous stories about me and a friend, and I wanted to see them and find out what had induced them to lie about me."

"After the visit of Helen and Elsie," said the witness, "I talked with my valet and instructed him to go to the room I had hired, conceal himself there and await my arrival. This was about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. I met the two girls at Forty-first street and Sixth avenue, and I took them to a room on the second floor, in the rear.

Police Were on Hand.

"The gas was burning when I arrived and there was a curtain hanging over a dresser where Hermann was concealed. I said to the girls: 'I have been told that you have been telling bad stories about me and a friend of mine, and you know this is wrong.' They each denied they ever told the stories. I told them to be good girls, keep away from older girls, and then sent them home."

Mrs. Hitchcock, who was Flora Zabelle on the stage, seemed nervous when she took the stand.

The witness told in detail where she had been with Mr. Hitchcock after December 8 until December 17, when she was taken ill and removed to Dr. Bull's sanitarium.

"Did Hitchcock ever tell you about any trouble with girls?"

"Yes. Before I went to the hospital he told me he was worried about some stories some girls were telling about him. He asked my advice, and I told him to see the girls and talk it over with them. While I was in the hospital he told me he had seen the girls in West Forty-first street, and thought the whole business had been settled. I have the utmost confidence in my husband."

KING'S RARE BOOKS UNDER HAMMER TO-DAY

The magnificent library of Cardenio F. King, the missing Boston financier and promoter, is being sold piecemeal and under the hammer this afternoon at Charles F. Libbie's auction rooms, No. 646 Washington street, to help in paying off some of King's creditors. On June 19 all of the valuable pictures and paintings will be sold in the same way at the King residence in Brookline.

The sale to-day is under the order of Lee M. Friedman, trustee in bankruptcy, and George F. Staples, mortgagee. A good-sized crowd of Boston book lovers is in attendance, and few public auctions in Boston have offered more valuable works.

King found time amid all the feverish fluctuations of stocks to accumulate a library indicative of the highest literary taste. It included fifty-three volumes of a limited print of Balzac; the "World's Masterpieces of Modern Paintings," edition de luxe; works of Moliere, on Japanese vellum; Guy de Maupassant, complete; the famous Isabella edition of Washington Irving's "Columbus," and representative volumes of many eminent authors.

While the sale is going on the New York police, at the request of Chief Watts, are searching for King in Gotham. He is believed to be there, or at least on his way there, after returning from Southampton, England, whence he sailed on May 10. Mrs. King has been in New York since last week, and at the home of her husband's brother, R. R. King, No. 1,152 Eighty-fifth street, Brooklyn.

Early to-day King had not appeared at his brother's, and the latter said he had no idea where he was. He declared that he has not seen him since before he left Boston in March. Syracuse dispatches say that one of King's sons is to be graduated this week from St. John's Military School, Manlius, N. Y., and that after his graduation the entire King family may remove to Canada.

HELD ON K. OF L. CHARGE.

Patrick J. Garrigan and William H. Curley, both of Watertown, were arraigned before Judge Luce of Waltham to-day, charged with circulating a bogus Knights of Labor subscription paper. G. Fred Robinson was the complainant, he having subscribed $10. The case was continued one week.

FOREST FIRES SWEEPING ON CAPE VILLAGES

NORTH EASTHAM, June 10.—An area of seven or eight miles has already been burned by the extensive forest fire which has been raging here since yesterday afternoon and the fire is still beyond the control of the tired fire-fighters. At leats three homes have been reported destroyed.

Early this morning a special train went through here with 300 more fighters from Chatham and Harwich and points along the line. All of the inhabitants of Eatsham and Wellfleet have joined the forces.

The fire is now burning towards Eastham Village and South Wellfleet, on the east side of the track along the ocean front.

Over five hundred men are fighting the flames which leap forward with lightning-like rapidity. Most of these men have been at work unceasingly since yesterday afternoon. Breakfast and dinner was served to the men in relays so that the work went on uninterrupted.

Contrary to early reports the Marconi Wireless Station is not in danger. The wind is showing a moderate breeze from the west so that the new smaller fires which break out are not in the direction of the wireless station.

To-day the railroad company sent all the section hands that could be spared. The entire fighting force were kept at work through the night by Fire Warden Dill.

MOTHER FINDS CHILD KIDNAPPED BY FATHER

MRS. ADRA SWAN TELLS OF LONG CHASE FOR SON OVER TWO CONTINENTS.

"All I want is my child. That is what has been driving me frantic. I shall not have a comfortable moment until my boy is in my arms again. What happens to my former husband does not greatly concern me."

This statement was made to-day by Mrs. Adra P. Swan, whose son was kidnapped by his father three weeks ago in Dorchester and who has just been caught in Rio Janeiro, Brazil, at the instance of the United States government.

Joseph W. Swan, a real estate dealer of this city, faces imprisonment on the charge of kidnapping. He will probably be extradited and brought back to this country after having been trailed across two continents.

That he would have returned the child had Mrs. Swan signed the rights of herself and the boy in a $20,000 trust fund, was the sensational statement of Mrs. Swan today when seen at the office of her attorney.

That Swan will be brought back to this country in spite of the fact that he has $12,000 in cash with him with which to fight extradition is the assertion of William H. Walker, attorney for Mrs. Swan.

Mrs. Swan's Story.

To a reporter of the BOSTON AMERICAN Mrs. Swan to-day told this story of her marital troubles:

"I was married to Mr. Swan about five years and during that time submitted to every imaginable kind of indignity and brutality. His harsh treatment of me culminated into his breaking into my room at 11 o'clock at night and cruelly attacking me because I would not sign notes aggregating $4,000 on which he intended to raise a loan from the National Security Bank. Previous to that he had threatened my life and on one occasion I was obliged to leave him and go to sea with my father, Captain Henry H. Gaul on his ship the Horace W. Macomber.

"When I instituted the suit for a divorce he secured as counsel George A. and Nelson P. Brown and Colonel Melvin O. Adams and fought the divorce in every way. Finally, before it came to trial, his counsel and Mr. Walker agreed on a $20,000 trust fund as alimony for myself and child. I was to have the custody of the child, he to see it once a week in the daytime and have the privilege of taking it out of the Commonwealth two days in the year.

Took Boy to New York.

"The 19th of last May he came to my house, No. 14 Adams street, Dorchester, and took Robert away, promising to return him the next day. He did not fulfil his agreement, and my counsel, Mr. Walker, being out of town, I waited several days, until finally I received a letter from him, dated New York, May 23, in which he stated that he would return the child if I would sign away our rights in the $20,000 trust fund which the court allowed us for alimony.

"This letter I at once turned over to Mr. Walker.

"My former husband did not take a nurse with him on the Valasquez as has been reported. He only bought a ticket for himself and son.

Kept Wife Shadowed.

"Mr. Swan has made many efforts to induce me to agree to an annulment of the divorce, but I shudder at the thought of ever living with him again and submitting to his indignities. He has had me followed by two and sometimes three detectives for months at a time. It has got so that I cannot leave my house without being shadowed. He has threatened my life and Robert's life many times.

"If my boy is restored to me, which I now hope for, I will take good care that Mr. Swan does not again abduct him or obtain possession of him for any length of time."

William H. Walker said: "We are expecting that Swan will put up the stiffest kind of a fight against extradition from Brazil. He is a natural fighter and has $12,000 in cash with him. But we will bring him back. We have already received from District Attorney Moran and Assistant District Attorney Dwyer great assistance in this case, and they promise to stand by us. Mr. Moran said to me, 'They can't abduct children in Suffolk County while I'm district attorney. I'll get that child.' He has a heart as big as an ox."

"Swan has committed two crimes. One the abduction and kidnapping of his son Robert after the child had been given into the custody of its mother by the courts. The other and more serious is that of the attempt at extortion in the letter which he write to Mrs. Swan, offering the child to her if she would release the trust fund of $20,000. For this the extreme penalty is twenty-five years.

Seen on Board Ship.

"I have learned since Mrs. Swan received that letter that Swan left New York three days before it was posted on the Lamport and Holt line steamer Velasquez, for Buenos Ayres. He was noticed by the man who sold him the ticket and thought to be a tramp, but then when he offered a $1,000 bill in payment for his ticket, the salesman regarded him with suspicion and took particular notice of him. The letter was undoubtedly mailed by a confederate three days after the Velasquez sailed from New York.

"We have interested not only District Attorney Moran and his assistant, Mr. Dwyer and Chief Watts, but the United States government, and no effort will be spared on the part of any of us to bring this man to justice.

Will Demand Extradition.

Chief Watts has been working all day with the District Attorney's office making preparations for the issuance of extradition papers for Swan, and will take the matter up to Acting Governor Draper at once. The State authorities will then demand his extradition through the Department of Justice at Washington.

The treaty between the United States and Brazil is a very liberal one, and covers both offences with which Swan is charged. Chief Watts estimates that the extradition of Swan will cost $3,000.

MIGHTY STEEL TRUST FORCED TO CUT PRICES

NEW YORK, June 10.—After a verbal battle that continued almost uninterruptedly all yesterday and extended into this morning, the independent steel manufacturers of the United States defeated J. P. Morgan's billion dollar Steel Trust and forced it to agree to a general cut in the prices of all finished steel products with the exception of steel rails.

At the conclusion of the arguments, former Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the Steel Trust, gave out the following written statement:

The representatives of the leading manufacturing steel companies have been in session during the day.

It is understood the price of iron ore has been, or will soon be, reduced fifty cents a ton base.

Each one of the steel manufacturers expressed the opinion that there should be a readjustment in the prices of their respective commodities, as follows:

Billets from $28 per ton to $25 per ton, Pittsburg.

Sheet bars from $29 per ton to $27 per ton, Pittsburg.

Plates from $1.70 per 100 pounds to $1.60 per 100 pounds, Pittsburg.

Structural from $1.70 per 100 pounds to $1.60 per 100 pounds, Pittsburg.

Merchant pipe, a reduction of two points or $4 per ton, Pittsburg.

Wire nails from $2.05 per 100 pounds to $1.95 per 100 pounds.

Sheets and tin plates were reduced early in the year, therefore no changes were considered in the prices of these products.

It is hoped that these changes will not necessitate a general radical readjustment of wages, which it is hoped to avoid.

BILL POSTERS FLEE FROM TORRID CITY

IN AND BRING YOUR MOTHER IN LAW
BANISH DULL CARE ALL WHO ENTER HERE

Several hundred members of the New England Bill Posters' Association participated in the annual outing of the organization, which was held at Wonderland Park yesterday afternoon and evening. Following an afternoon of sightseeing the members sat down to an enjoyable repast in the park restaurant, at which General Manager Higgins was the invited guest. After the dinner the visitors inspected the various attractions in the big park. The picture shows a group of them at one of the funmaking emporiums.

BE WONDERLAND PILGRIM AS GUEST OF AMERICAN

TICKETS TO BIG PARK AND FUN FACTORY ARE FREE WITH NEXT SUNDAY'S PAPER.

Probably you've heard about "Pilgrim's Progress" and what a hard time the weary Pilgrim had? Well, there is a place in Wonderland that is pretty tedious, but not in the same way. They call it Pilgrim's Progress, but there's nothing but fun inside, and high jinks from start to finish.

Manager Wolens claims it is the greatest fun factory in the world. Admission to Pilgrim's Progress and general admission to Wonderland Park is to be the gift of next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN to its readers. The Sunday American Outing Club can clip from the Sunday paper free tickets to be used Monday or Tuesday, one to the park and the other to the Fun Factory.

When you enter Pilgrim's Progress there are dark passages and lighted ones. You can't tell whether you are walking on air or eggs part of the time. Presently a great white glare lights up the tunnel and a big white skeleton bars your way. If you step back he grins at you; if you go ahead he disappears.

Presently the chamber is reached. It is a restful looking place. Notice the inscriptions on the wall, press buttons and see your past, present and future. Also acquire a lemon from the big box in the centre. If you don't need a lemon, coax your unsuspecting friend to investigate and laugh until your ribs crack.

Try the benches if you are fatigued. It is a shame to tell you what happens to the credulous ones who try to rest. Just wait and see and also watch the Kantsitonit. It won't hurt, but it will occasion a little mild surprise perhaps. Once more wait and see.

In course of your progress as a Pilgrim you'll encounter some moving floors. They are different from any floor you ever saw. Then go over and make the supernatural siren howl. It will do you good.

These tips will be sufficient until you break into this house of mysteries.

The price is ten cents, but with the free ticket from next Sunday's AMERICAN it is free to the big park and all its outside circuses, tallyhos and parades. Order the SUNDAY AMERICAN at once.

DOCTOR'S ORDER WAS: 'CUTICURA'

For a Bad Case of Eczema on Child —Suffered for Three Months— Disease Reached a Fearful State —Pain and Itching were Terrible.

CURED AFTER OTHER PRESCRIPTIONS FAILED

"When I was small I was troubled with eczema for about three months. It was all over my face and covered nearly all of my head. It reached such a state that it was just a large scab all over, and the pain and itching were terrible. I doctored with an able physician for some time and was then advised by him to use the Cuticura Remedies which I did and I was entirely cured. I have not been bothered with it since. I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment but do not know exactly how much was used to complete the cure. I can safely say that Cuticura did a lot for me. Miss Anabel Wilson, North Branch, Mich., Oct. 20, 1907."

ITCHING CURED

With Cuticura Remedies in Three Days After Six Months of Suffering.

"I suffered fully six months. The trouble began on my arms in little red pimples and it was not long before it was all over my body, limbs, face, and hands. It was so bad that I could not rest night or day and during the six months, I did not get a good night's sleep. I doctored for three or four months and spent at least twenty dollars trying to find a cure but none could be found. Then I saw the Cuticura Remedies advertised, and the next day I purchased some for seventy-five cents at the druggist's. I used them and I was relieved of the itching in three days, and I have never had a sign of any skin disease since. The Cuticura Remedies are the only remedies to use for skin diseases, they have cured me and they will cure others in the same way. J. W. Bloom, R. R. Telegrapher, Holloway, Mich., Nov. 20 and Dec. 29, 1906."

Cuticura Remedies are guaranteed absolutely pure under the United States Food and Drugs Act.

HURLEY WON'T GIVE OUTSIDE BAND PERMIT

Mayor John F. Hurley of Salem and members of the Lynn Musicians' Union are at war over the refusal of the Mayor to grant a permit to the Lynn Cadet Band to play band concerts at Salem Willows, a public park.

The Lynn band has been awarded the contract for giving the Summer concert at the Willows, but Mayor Hurley believes in home talent and says he will not grant a permit to any band from outside Salem to play in the city.

The Boston & Northern Railway, which operates the Willows, hired the Lynn band, but as the Mayor refused the permit the Salem Cadet Band, which has played at the Willows for the past twenty years, gave the concert last Sunday. They played with the understanding that they would abide by the result of contemplated action by the Lynn Musicians' Union, which has taken up the matter.

MANY CURES OF WHITE PLAGUE

A record of cures in the case of consumptives of from seventy-five to eighty per cent. was announced yesterday by Rev. Dr. Elwood Worcester when he spoke at the Emmanuel Church. He said: "We have cured many consumptives at the average cost of $120 each. Our record of cures is seventy-five to eighty per cent. of cases treated." He described the methods of treatment for tuberculosis patients living in tenement districts.

CANOBIE LAKE THE REAL COOL RESORT OF FUN

Twenty-five Cents in Free Tickets to This Retreat With Sunday American.

Canobie Lake Park is the sylvan retreat for Southern New Hampshire during the hot days, the beautifully wooded retreat, where splendidly kept lands slope gracefully down to the lake, as pretty a sheet of water as can be found in New England, a wonderfully picturesque and natural park in which man's handwork is skilfully interwoven with the generous outlay of mother nature.

It is the ideal spot for warm weather, and there is fun enough on every hand for both young and old.

Monday or Friday of next week, day or evening, the readers of the SUNDAY AMERICAN will be given free coupons to this park, in all twenty-five cents' worth of first-class amusement, free of charge. Admission to the grounds is free, for it is not an inclosed park.

Big Open-Air Theatre.

Canobie Lake Park contains all the kinds of atractions and fun that go to make Summer parks attractive. No less than fifteen of these, including a big theatre and a dancing pavilion, are scattered about the cool wooded hillside. Moderate priced attractions are on every hand from the big high rides to down through the long list.

Regulation bowling alleys are included. Bowling is a favorite pastime for the park visitors from Haverhill, Lawrence, Lowell, Nashua, Manchester and waytowns. Canobie Lake Park has the best alleys made.

The House of Mirth is a fun factory of high power capacity. The only accidents that ever occur inside are from laughing too heartily.

Next door is the Laughing Gallery, where you separate yourself from the blues at a second's notice. There's where you see your distorted images. There is where you grow ten feet tall or drop to only a foot and a half in height, according to where you look.

In there you see yourself in all kinds of shapes—skinny, lean, fat, roly-poly, big head, big feet, of seven-foot girth and with noses as long as your arm. That's the Laughing Gallery.

Whole Day's Fun Free.

And then the Merry-Go-Round with its vari-colored lights, horses that trot and canter round and round with bells a-tinkling, lions and tigers that the pretty children can ride without fear, and a concert that lasts all day.

These four attractions are for the readers of next Sunday's AMERICAN. You clip the Canobie Lake Park coupons and use them on Monday or Friday, day or evening. They are just as welcome as dimes or nickels. Twenty-five cents of fun free and no charge for admission to the Park.

LYNN BOY DROWNED.

LYNN, June 10.—While swimming in a pool in the West Lynn marshes, Albert Maxwell, aged seventeen, was drowned. It is supposed he was seized with cramps. Maxwell was employed by a confectioner in West Lynn.

ARMED GUARDS REPLY TO BLACK HAND THREATS

Wealthy Residents of Lenox Offer $1,000 Reward in Terror Case.

Wanted—Men to patrol estates. Must be good, sure shots. Wages $3 a night. Must furnish their own rifles and side arms.

One thousand dollars reward—$1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of Black Hand agents who trespassed on the estate of William Pollock in Holmesdale last Sunday night.

PITTSFIELD, June 10.—Because of the threats of the agents of the Black Hand Society, the wealthy Summer residents in the Berkshires are still living in daily terror of a midnight outbreak.

The rich New Yorkers are as greatly alarmed as ever at the bold attempt to extort, by threats of violence, $5,000 from William Pollock, and the Summer colonists are preparing to organize for defence against the Black Hand agents who have followed them here from New York.

To-day posters are placed conspicuously all over the country here asking for armed guards to defend the fareatened Summer estates, as the police protection is notoriously inadequate. Three dollars a day are offered, the volunteers to furnish their own weapons.

Driven Away by Bullets.

In addition the campaign is launched for the capture of the Black Handers who stole onto the estate of William Pollock last Sunday night thinking to get a fat pocketbook containing $5,000, but who were driven off in a fusilade of bullets. A notice offering a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of the men has been posted.

Around many a Summer home in Lenox and other Berkshire estates double guards patroled the premises last night. On many of these estates such a thing as an armed guard had never been seen before.

"I intend to fight my case for the benefit of the Lenox colony as well as for myself," said Mr. Pollock to-day to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter. "They threatened me if I didn't give them $5,000, and had I shown the white feather they would have pestered others.

"If the Black Hand ever gets a penny from me it will be over my dead body. I will not submit to blackmail, and in saying this I express the sentiment of the other New Yorkers here who are in thorough sympathy with my plans."

Headquarters in New York.

Chief of Police White of Pittsfield declares that the agents of the Black Hand here are working under orders of their leaders in New York. Clews have been obtained by the policemen and private detectives that may lead to the arrest of three men who made the attack on Pollock's place.

Their description leads the police to believe that they are the same men who four months ago wrecked the house of Antonio Florio with dynamite when he refused to give up money as blackmail. Two charges of dynamite, sixteen sticks in all, were placed under the house. The snow put out the fire in the fuses of one charge, but the rear of the place was wrecked.

A Gentle Dose That Never Needs Increasing

A small dose of harsh physic—salts, castor oil or pills—soon ceases to be effective.

Then you take larger doses. Else you take the physic more frequently.

That is because the physic is irritating.

The bowel lining grows hard, just as the skin becomes calloused by constant irritation.

Calloused bowels can't perform their natural functions. The result is chronic constipation—the need of constant help.

Such physic belongs to an ancient era. Modern physicians have learned its effects and displaced it.

They now help the bowels gently and naturally. They use vegetables instead of minerals.

Cascarets are purely vegetable.

They act just as laxative foods, just as exercise acts on the bowels.

They don't harden the bowels—don't inflame the stomach—because they don't irritate.

One small, sweet dose is always sufficient, unless the bowels are already calloused.

Their use never causes pain.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with CCC on every tablet. The box is marked like this:

Cascarets

The vest-pocket box is 10 cents.
The month-treatment box 50 cents.

HISGEN TAKES WAR ON TRUST TO FITCHBURG

On Invitation of Business Men He Plans to Start Oil Business There.

WILL CUT PRICES 2 CENTS

Special to the Boston American.

FITCHBURG, June 10.—Thomas L. Hisgen has spread his fight against the Standard Oil Trust to Fitchburg. At the solicitation of the Board of Trade and Merchants' Association he will establish a branch business here and will give people of this place and vicinity the advantage of from two or three cents per gallon less for oil than they are now paying.

In connection with the visit of Mr. Hisgen to this place the Fitchburg Daily News has this to say:

"Thomas L. Hisgen, probable presidential candidate of the Independence League, and one of the few men of this country who has successfully carried on a fight in opposition to the Standard Oil Company, contemplates the installation of oil tanks here and the conduct of the oil business in this city.

Invited to Fitchburg.

"Said Mr. Hisgen: 'We come here at the request of the Fitchburg Board of Trade and Merchants' Association, and, while we have been in the city but a short time, we have already been convinced of the possibilities of an independent business. I find that the oil which is being furnished to the consumers in this section is of the cheapest grade, and as an illustration of the fact I may cite the explosion which you had here a few years ago.

"'We expect to locate in this city and we are now looking for a suitable location. No doubt we will have an oil war with the Standard, but we are willing to undertake it, as we have in other cities in our district about Springfield. Before we undertook to establish an independent oil business in Springfield the people were compelled to pay as high a price as you are here, 14 cents. To the retailer the oil was sold for 10 cents.

"'I propose to establish a business which will require about four tanks in this city, and entail an investment at the start of between $8,000 and $10,000.

"'If we can secure enough patrons, such as retailers, who will stick to us from the start, I have no doubt that we can make a success of it and give the people a better quality of kerosene at lower prices. In Springfield the retailers secure their oil from us at 8½ cents per gallon.

"'Over there and in Pittsfield, Northampton and other places where we have businesses, there has been a merry war with the Standard company. They had been charging exorbitant prices, but when we entered the field they reduced the price and in some places offered to fill tanks of retailers as low as 5 cents. All we ask is a fair competition and that the people stick to us, and then we will see just what the Standard can do.

"'Fitchburg is one of the best fields for an independent company that I know of, and, with the co-operation of the merchants and the consumers, we will succeed here.'"

Competitor with Trust.

In the course of a column story the Fitchburg Sentinel said:

"Thomas L. Hisgen of Springfield, candidate of the Independence League for Governor of Massachusetts at the election of 1907, is a visitor in Fitchburg to-day. He did not come, however, for the purpose of talking politics or erecting any fences whereby he may strengthen his chances for Governor or other political honors during the elections of 1908, nor were those who met him of his own political faith.

"He came to Fitchburg to talk about oil, and not only to talk about it, but also to see if plans may not be made whereby he will be able to engage in the oil business in this city and give the Standard Oil Company and its agents in Fitchburg and vicinity a dose of competition which will cause them to take notice of his presence and sell kerosene at a price much lower than now obtains here.

Standard Will Fight.

"The visit of Mr. Hisgen was made at the suggestion of members of the Board of Trade and Merchants' Association, who are of the opinion that the time has come for Fitchburg to get the benefits of competition which the people of the western part of Massachusetts have long enjoyed through the persistency and determination of Mr. Hisgen, backed by his ability to give the Standard a run for its money.

"Mr. Hisgen said: 'It is hardly to be supposed that the Standard will allow us to have everything our own way here, any more than elsewhere, so that in any event, with competition in force, there will be a large saving for the people of Fitchburg and vicinity in their oil bills. We propose to make the Standard level its prices throughout the State and it will have to lower them here or raise them in the western part.'"

SOCIETY PAIR MARRIED AMID GAY SPLENDOR

Miss Isabella Fabyan Bride of Percival H. Lombard To-day.

One of the most important June weddings was that to-day of Miss Isabella Fabyan, the handsome daughter of Mrs. George Fabyan of Warren street, Brookline, and Percival Hall Lombard of Denver, Col., formerly of Newbury street, this city. The ceremony was at the beautiful Fabyan estate, "Fairlawn," at 12:30, and was performed by the Rev. Alexander Mann of Trinity.

The large drawing room in which the wedding guests assembled was a bower of hydrangeas, palms and pink rambler roses. The girlish blonde bride wore a clinging gown of white satin and duchesse lace and a long tulle veil fastened to the hair with a wreath of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of valley lilies and orchids.

She was given in marriage by her brother, Colonel George Fabyan of Chicago, and had neither bridesmaids nor maid of honor.

Congressman Andrew J. Peters was the groom's man, and the ushers were Robert Walcott of Cambridge and James Purdon of Boston. Following the ceremony there was a breakfast and reception, at which Mrs. Fabyan, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Lombard, mother of the groom, received with the bridal couple.

Dr. Marshall Fabyan, the bride's brother, who just a week ago to-day married Eleanor McCormick at her home in Baltimore, and Mrs. Fabyan, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wright Fabyan of Commonwealth avenue and Mrs. Isaac Thomas, the bride's sister, were among the guests.

Mr. Lombard, who is a son of Mrs. J. H. Lombard of Newbury street, graduated from Harvard in 1895 and from Technology in 1898. He is a member of the Harvard Club in New York and of the University Club in Denver. After a trip to Europe of several months, accompanied by Dr. Fabyan and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Lombard will make their home in Denver.

O. H. P. BELMONT DIES WITH WIFE AT SIDE

By Boston American Leased Wire.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., June 10.—Oliver H. P. Belmont died at his home here at 6:40 a. m. to-day. He had been in a state of coma since late yesterday afternoon, and had failed to rally when stimulants were administered. His wife and other members of the family were called to his bedside before daybreak, when Dr. Lanehart, who had remained with him all through the night, sent word that dissolution was approaching. Sorrowfully they gathered about the bedside waiting for the end.

Mr. Belmont made a heroic fight for life, but when it became apparent that the peritonitis which succeeded an operation for appendicitis had become acute the physicians practically abandoned hope. Oliver Hazard Perry Belmont was fifty years old. He had a most varied career, having been in the navy, in the banking business, in journalism and in politics.

Banker and Navy Officer.

He was a New York boy and went to school here and also at St. Paul's, Garden City. Then he went abroad and studied three years, afterward going into a bank at Bremen as a clerk to fit him for his father's banking business in New York.

O. H. P. Belmont was named after the hero of the battle of Lake Erie, his grand uncle. He had a hankering after the life of a sailor and wrote to his father, the late August Belmont, that he was tired of the Bremen bank. His father procured him an appointment to the naval academy at Annapolis. Belmont was graduated from Annapolis and entered the navy. He served for two years, but resigned to become a member of the firm of August Belmont.

After several years he grew tired once more of the banking business and drifted into politics. Then he started the illustrated political weekly, The Verdict, and in 1900 became a delegate to the Democratic national convention at Kansas City, which nominated William J. Bryan for the second time for the presidency.

Belmont then entered actively into political life. He was elected to Congress from the Thirteenth New York district. He had been conspicuous as a consistent supporter of William J. Bryan, although latterly he had dropped out of active political life.

In 1896 Belmont married Mrs. Alva Smith Vanderbilt, the divorced wife of William K. Vanderbilt, Sr. Mrs. Vanderbilt was Belmont's second wife, the first having been Miss Sarah Swan Whitney. The events leading up to the divorce of the Vanderbilts and the subsequent marriage of Mrs. Vanderbilt to Belmont caused a sensation in New York society.

It was around this beautiful woman that all of the romance and all the tragedy of Belmont's career were woven. While the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt on their yacht in the Mediterranean Belmont and Mrs. Vanderbilt fell in love with each other. Vanderbilt left the ship and his wife secured a divorce. Then followed the wedding of Belmont and Mrs. Vanderbilt.

Belmont's first wife was Sarah Swan Whitney. She divorced him and married George L. Rives, a corporation lawyer. Miss Natica Rives, whose mysterious death in her home on Fifth avenue last February caused such a sensation, was a daughter of O. H. P. Belmont. Her name was changed to Rives after her mother had married the second time. She was born after the separation and her father rarely saw her. He attended her funeral.

The estrangement of Oliver Belmont and his brothers, August and Perry, was caused by Oliver marrying Mrs. Vanderbilt.

Belmont was a grandson of Commodore M. C. Perry, who negotiated the treaty between the United States and Japan. This Perry was a brother of Oliver Hazard Perry.

Belmont was a prominent member of the New York Yacht Club and of numerous others clubs in New York, London and Paris. He was a past master of St. John's Lodge, F. and A. M., No. 1 of Newport.

ALLIGATOR JOE ARRIVES WITH 600 REPTILES

Horde of Fighting Saurians Sunning Themselves at Paragon Park.

"I'm the first show manager on the ground," said Alligator Joe, at Paragon Park and he waved his hand with pride over his alligator farm, where 600 specimens of reptiles, from four inches to twenty-five feet in length, recline upon the sun-kissed flooring or dabble in the baths at either side.

Alligator Joe is a naturalist, without special book learning. He loves crocodiles and alligators and communes with them. In the ballyho when the all new Paragon Park opens next Saturday Joe will take an alligator out into the crowd and hypnotize it, crooning a low musical dirge while manipulating it with deftly moving hands.

Crocodiles Grow in Florida.

"They used to think that crocodiles didn't grow in Florida waters," said Alligator Joe, "but that is a mistake. I found a colony of them in the Florida Keys and here have half a hundred, mostly big fellows.

"Can they fight? Watch that fellow when I touch him with this pole." The eleven-foot crocodile, with a roar that sounded like a seething underground torrent, whirled upon the stick and bit at it with jaws a yard long, that snapped like a bear trap.

"Fight? Why those critters just live to sun themselves and fight. Look at the old 'hog nose' over there. Last year that crocodile scrapped with another for half an hour and at the conclusion its upper jaw was crushed to a pulp and hung down into its mouth. I tied up 'hog nose' and wired the upper jaw together, after which the reptile lay in the mud for months without eating or scarcely moving and now the jaw is as good as ever, barring that it's crooked and scarred. That was a pretty fair piece of crocodile doctoring.

"The reason I have to keep these crocodiles and alligators, the big ones, separate, is because the crocodiles, being the best fighters, would kill the alligators.

Little Ones Live Together.

"Notice that the little ones are all mixed together. They can pinch pretty hard, these little eight inch fellows, yes, and draw blood, but they get along well together until they attain a little size, then we have to separate them.

"Old 'Miami Joe' over in the corner is estimated to be 4,000 years old. He came from Africa. All the other alligators and crocodiles are from around Florida.

"The little ones eat once a week, the big ones once a month. It is nearly feeding time for the big ones. And how they do fight when they feed.

The Ferari Animal Circus arrived yesterday and was installed in the jungle. It holds forty-five jungle beasts of fierces mien, most of them under control of their keepers and made to perform unusual acts and form animal pictures in a big circular arena.

Lowande's one ring circus is expected to-morrow. The park is nearly ready for the opening, although big gangs of men are still working night and day. The scenic work is especially inspiring this year. Manager Dodge is very confident and complacent and all look for a big season's business.

HEARST MAKES STRIKING GAIN IN THE RECOUNT

In First Five Ballot Boxes Opened To-day Gets 13 More Votes.

NEW YORK, June 10.—William Randolph Hearst made striking gains at the outset of the recount before Supreme Court Justice Lambert to-day. By the time five ballot boxes had been examined he was credited with a net gain of thirteen votes, bringing his total thus far in the re-canvass up to 148.

Four assembly districts and part of the fifth were recanvassed yesterday.

Sixty-four votes which were not counted for William R. Hearst for Mayor on the original canvass of the inspectors of election on the night of November 7, 1905, were found in these boxes and were credited to Mr. Hearst.

Mr. Hearst's total gain yesterday in part of the Eleventh Assembly District was nine, making his gain in this district sixteen votes. In the old Twelfth District Mr. Hearst gained a total of twenty-three votes and in the Thirteenth Assembly District he gained seventeen. Mr. Hearst's gains in the old Fourteenth were less pronounced, only seven votes being found which were not credited to him by the inspectors of election.

In the fourteen boxes opened in the old Fifteenth Assembly District his total gain was eight votes, with ten more boxes in this district to be opened to-day.

McClellan's total gains of the day were forty-five, leaving Mr. Hearst a net gain of nineteen votes. In the old Eleventh McClellan gained only three yesterday, making his total nine; in the old Twelfth he gained only eight votes, and in the Thirteenth seven.

HELD ON CHARGE OF BREAK IN STABLE

A. J. Deaks of No. 116 Pearl street, Newton, and Robert O'Leary of No. 16 Centre pace, Newton, were arraigned before Judge Kennedy to-day charged with breaking into the barn of Horace N. Walton at Newtonville on the night of May 28 and the attempted larceny of Mr. Walton's trotting horse. They pleaded not guilty, and were held in $500 bail each.

SOLONS AID CHELSEA FUND.

The members of the House of Representatives have contributed $683 for the Chelsea relief fund. The money has been turned over to Lee, Higginson & Co., treasurers of the fund.

TO BUILD NEW PLAYHOUSE ON LYCEUM SITE

Boylston Market Association to Erect Model Theatre to Seat 1700.

TO BE READY NEXT FALL

Another new theatre is to be built at once in Boston. It is to occupy the site of the present old Lyceum Theatre, numbered No. 659 to No. 667 Washington street and additional property recently purchased for this purpose, numbered No. 8 Boylston square, running through and numbered No. 23 to No. 29 Lagrange street. It is to be completed November 25.

It is to be erected by the Boylston Market Association, the owners of the property, and will be known as the Gaiety Theatre. It will be under the management of George E. Batchelier, the associate manager being Ralph L. Ripley, who will also be the treasurer of the new house. They have for many years been connected with the old Lyceum, being well known throughout the theatrical world.

The new house, it is declared, will be one of the up-to-date fireproof structures of its kind in this country, the plan of the same having been drawn by Clarence H. Blackall of this city, who designed and constructed many of the best theatres in the country.

Six-Story Mercantile Building.

The property will have a frontage of nearly 66 feet on Washington street and a depth of over 200 feet on Boylston square, covering a total land area of 15,844 square feet, having a taxed value of $416,300. The total assessed value of the property as it stands to-day, including the old brick buildings, is $455,000.

On the front of the property there will be a six-story mercantile building, which will extend back to a depth of 70 feet from Washington street. This will be occupied for business purposes, with two stores on the front on the ground floor, and large offices above. The management of the property is in the hands of C. W. Whittier & Brother, who also negotiated the deal, and who will have charge of erection of the buildings.

The exterior of the building will be of brick, with granite trimmings, and inlaid patterns of marble mosaic. The rear of the property will be given up entirely to the Gaiety Theatre. The walls will be of what is known as steel skeleton construction, while the floors will be of reinforced concrete.

Seating Capacity of 1,700.

The new building will have a total seating capacity of 1,700, with the balcony and gallery. The main approach will be through a broad vestibule leading from Washington street and marked on the outside by an elaborate wrought iron canopy projecting over the sidewalk, above which will be a large electrical sign giving the name of the theatre, and just below another sign showing the name of the play.

The policy will be to produce extravaganza, vaudeville and musical shows.

$100 AWARDS FOR GARDENS

One hundred dollars is to be given in prizes this Summer for the best gardens in Boston, showing best results in window and other ornamentation by means of plants, vines and flowers. The North End, West End and East Boston will each have prizes of $10, $8, $6, $4, $3 and $2 each, to be distributed through local committees. Competitors must notify the local committee by mail.

The committees in charge are: North End, Miss S. Myrta Abbott, chairman, No. 37 North Bennett street; Miss L. E. Gilman, Meyer Bloomfield; West End, Christopher R. Eliot, chairman, No. 2 West Cedar street; Mrs. Ralph Shorey and Miss Harriet Holway; East Boston, Mrs. Jennie S. Merrick, chairman, No. 76 White street; Mrs. Ellen O. Wakley and Miss Jennie E. Lawton. The awards will be made about the middle of August.

UXBRIDGE PLANT OPENS.

UXBRIDGE, June 10.—The Hecla plant of the American Woolen Company has started its machinery on sample lots, and it is expected that within a short time regular operations will be resumed.

MORE REVENUE FROM MARKETS

The Finance Commission recommends in a communication to Mayor Hibbard that rentals in the Faneuil Hall and Quincy market buildings be increased 12½ per cent., that leases be executed for terms of ten years and that tenants now occupying space under the sidewalks but paying no rent be charged 50 cents a square foot for such space.

The recommendation is made upon a report submitted to the Finance Commission by a committee of experts consisting of Messrs. Edmund D. Codman, Russell G. Fessenden and Leslie C. Wead, and will increase the city's annual income from markets from $114,129 to $131,198, an advance of $17,069. The return upon a fair valuation of the property will be about four per cent.

FOWLER'S STATUS BAD.

Because of the doubt that existed as to his status as an amateur is given as the reason why Bob Fowler, the Cambridgeport Marathon runner, was not selected for the team that will represent America in the Olympic games in England.

WOMAN GETS $2,850 VERDICT

Mary T. McGrath of Cambridge was awarded a verdict of $2,850 by a jury in the First Session of the Middlesex County Superior Court at East Cambridge to-day in a suit brought against Patrick McGovern, a contractor of Boston, for injuries received on January 13, 1905, by falling into a hole near the corner of Boylston and Washington streets.

She also sued the city of Boston for $10,000, but the jury brought in a verdict for the defendant.

GET THREE MONTHS FOR BEING IDLE

Four men, charged under the new law with being idle and disorderly, were before Judge Fallon in the South Boston Municipal Criminal Court to-day. William F. Dresser, George Haley and Edward Kelly were given three months each in the House of Correction at Deer Island. Thomas Colaskey was told to get out of South Boston within twenty-four hours.

LET CHURCH AND STATE PART AS IN AMERICA

ROME, June 10.—"If the separation of church and state generally would result in the same profound respect being shown the Catholic church, as is the case in America, I would earnestly and quickly ask for such separation everywhere."

This was the message that Pope Pius X. gave to Bishop Charles E. McDonnell of Brooklyn in his farewell audience to the prelate.

"The Pope expressed his satisfaction with the condition of the Catholic church in America," said the Bishop. "He said the respect shown the church reminded him of the consideration shown a venerable woman in the house of a gentleman."

POILLON SISTERS OUT OF PRISON

NEW YORK, June 10.—Catherine and Charlotte Poillon, whose exploits beginning with a suit against W. Gould Brokaw and continuing with a long series of clashes with many other men of prominence have kept the police of the city busy for two or three years, were released from Blackwell's Island to-day, after serving three months on a charge of having "beaten" various hotels.

TROOPS IN FIGHT WITH NIGHT RIDERS

ABERDEEN, O., June 10.—Reports have just reached here of a pitched battle between Cincinnati troops and a band of fifteen night riders early to-day, when the soldiers came upon the night riders near the farm of Ephrim Martin, a tobacco planter, where they were destroying beds. Whether anyone was shot is not yet known.

SAMOAN GIRL FOR SCHOOL OF MORMONS

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 10.—The Rev. Thomas S. Cort, Robert E. Dimond and Wilfred Porter, Mormon missionaries, brought into this country on the steamship Aeon, a full-blooded Samoan girl, whom they are taking to Utah to educate in the Mormon school at Salt Lake City.

KAISERIN IS HURT BY FALL FROM HORSE

BERLIN, June 10.—Empress Augusta Victoria, while riding with Emperor William to-day, was thrown from her horse and slightly injured. The Emperor hastened to the Kaiserin's side, and though she protested that she was able to resume her ride, he hailed a cab and had her taken to the palace, where the court physician was called. He pronounced her injuries only a few bruises.

HOUSE VOTES FOR CHELSEA LOAN

The bill authorizing the city of Chelsea to borrow $1,000,000 for municipal purposes was given its several readings and passed by the House to-day under a suspension of the rules. Opponents of the bill were holding a meeting, considering its recall, when its friends had the rules suspended and the bill passed.

GAELIC GAMES AT JULY 4 FIELD DAY

Arrangements have been practically completed by the committee of fifty for the field day of the Knights of St. Brendan to be held on the Locust Street Grounds on July 4. The entries of six teams have been received for the Gaelic games. John F. Begley is chairman of the committee on music and dancing, and Charles H. Sughrue has charge of the privileges.

SOCIALISTS HOLD STRAWBERRY FETE

The Greater Boston Socialists are making preparations for the coming campaign, and from now on will wage incessant warfare for the principles they advocate. The opening gun will be fired at the corner of Broadway and F street, Thursday evening, when George R. Kirkpatrick will speak on "What, First, Is to Be the Standard of Right and Justice?" This evening a strawberry festival will be given by the Socialists at Parker Memorial Hall.

Sample Rugs

We were large buyers at the rug and carpet sale held last week in New York. Our display racks are now filled with rugs; the last one of a pattern, some slightly soiled, some few that have been loaned and returned, principally to the different expositions and theatres. Following prices are made to make display space for new patterns and mean genuine economy to prospective rug purchasers. Many other values just as good omitted because of cost of newspaper space.

A Sermon on the Rights of a Mother-in-Law

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

A QUESTION has been propounded to the Editor of the BOSTON AMERICAN which he has requested me to answer.

The question, or series of questions, pertains to the old, old subject which has troubled the mind of man since the beginning of creation, with the exception of Adam and Eve.

1. Has a mother-in-law any rights a son-in-law in honor should respect?

2. If a mother-in-law and son-in-law have had a bitter quarrel over domestic affairs has the son-in-law a moral right to command his wife to cease all social or loving intercourse with her mother?

3. If the wife decides, through a mistaken sense of duty to her husband, to forever remain on terms of sundered companionship with her mother, is she deporting herself in a proper or filial manner toward her mother?

4. If the wife has a brother who becomes a chum of her husband under the state of affairs above mentioned, is that son showing a proper love or protecting spirit toward his mother, who is old and alone?

These questions are entirely too abstract to permit of a definite answer. It all depends on the nature of the quarrel or misunderstanding.

Some Are Trouble-Makers

If the mother has been interfering with the domestic affairs of the household, and offering unsolicited opinions; if she has been officiously intrusive in matters which pertained solely to the husband and wife, and which they could settle between themselves; if she has been pouring kerosene upon flames, instead of oil on troubled waters, then, indeed, the husband is right in suggesting that his wife choose between a home with himself or with her mother.

When a woman marries a man, when a man marries a woman, their personal, financial, domestic and sentimental affairs should be decided between them with no intervention of a third party until they ask assistance.

Many a mother fails to realize that it is her place to stand second in authority, as an adviser to a son or daughter, after either has taken the marriage vows.

If the daughter has selected a husband who has ideas, habits or customs of which the mother does not approve, it is her place to keep silent, since the daughter has made her choice, and not undertake the work of reconstructing their lives according to her ideals.

A word of loving counsel or admonition is all very well, but a continual interference and espionage is quite another thing.

When the brother of the wife takes the part of the son-in-law against his mother the evidence is somewhat strong in favor of the husband: it suggests the interfering and selfish mother-in-law, who cannot permit her married children to direct their own lives.

Her Whims Should Not Rule

A mother who is "old and alone" is not necessarily lovable or in the right. A son or a daughter should look after the physical well being of such a mother and should be respectful in speech and deportment toward her, but to coincide with all her whims and to adopt all her prejudices and to uphold her in all her ideas is morally wrong.

The duty to humanity and to one's own sense of justice is a greater and higher duty than that to a parent, a child or a friend. It is a pathetic position for a son or a daughter, to stand between a parent and a wife or husband.

It is a most pathetic situation for a man—this position between a wife and a jealous mother. My heart always aches for the man in the case even more than for the woman who is misused.

Sometimes the wife is in the wrong. Sometimes a man marries a woman who is so narrow and so selfish and so jealous that she begrudges the husband's mother her son's affection.

Sometimes a loved and cherished daughter marries a man so selfish, so tyrannical, that he wants to utterly obliterate childhood and girlhood from her memory and leave only himself the tyrant for the wife to think about.

But I must confess that I have seen but one such wife or husband where I have seen ten selfish and disagreeable mothers-in-law.

Entitled to Love

Madame Mother-in-law, so far as your rights are concerned, you have no more right to interfere with the domestic relations of your son or daughter than has any stranger in your town.

You are entitled to love, if you are lovable; to respect, if you make yourself worthy of it, and to respectful treatment at all events on humanitarian grounds.

You are entitled to good care and protection from your children, but this does not mean that they shall always make you a member of their households, if they find it more expedient to care for you elsewhere. It does not mean that you have the privilege of criticising the domestic arrangements of their lives and homes.

If your son or daughter asks your advice, sympathy and counsel, give it as wisely as you can; but keep away from such a position if possible. Pour oil on troubled waters and soothe and allay wounded feelings when possible. Act as mediator and adjuster of difficulties, rather than the widening wedge.

And if this attitude does not make you a welcome member of your child's home, find another home as soon as you can, and do not pose as a martyr.

Your own child will always love you, if you are lovable. We are not loved for relationship, but for the qualities within us.

If you are not obliged to be a member of the household of your married child, do not be. If you are, try to be an agreeable one. ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

A ROYAL FAMILY IN THE HIGHEST SENSE

Beatrice Fairfax Describes the Home Life of the Most Beautiful Royal Household in the World—That of Italy

KING VICTOR EMMANUEL.

PRINCE OF PIEDMONT.
(Four years old.)

PRINCESS YOLANDA.
(Seven years old.)

PRINCESS MAFALDA.
(Six years old.)

PRINCESS GIOVANNA.
(One year old.)

QUEEN HELENA OF ITALY.

THIS is a picture of the King and Queen of Italy and their young family. There are three little girls and a boy, the heir to the throne.

He is the first of the four heirs who stand between the Duc d'Abruzzi, who is to marry Miss Katharine Elkins, and the throne.

He is a bonny little lad, and it is to be hoped that he will live to claim the high honors that await him.

The chief charm in this royal group is the beauty and naturalness of the children. The dignity of royalty has not as yet touched them, and they are just four little happy, healthy babies.

When Italy's king chose his tall, beautiful Princess of Montenegro he made a very wise choice. She is not only a good Queen, but she is first and foremost an excellent mother.

One hears many amusing stories of the way she manages her wilful little eldest daughter, Princess Yolanda.

The Italian royal nursery is said to be under the actual management of the Queen. She gets as much pleasure out of her children as any untitled mother would.

The trouble with most royal mothers is that they must be queens first, mothers afterward. But the Queen of Italy has reversed this order. Her nursery is the most important spot on earth to her.

Many women grumble that they have so much to do. They complain that they cannot attend to both home and social duties.

What would become of them, I wonder, if they had as many calls on their time and attention as this capable young Queen of Italy? Her children are dressed as simply as though their parents were in most ordinary circumstances.

I do not believe there is any royal family in the world where the children are one and all so good looking as in this little Italian group.

The King himself is short of stature and rather plain of face, so he was very wise to choose a tall and good-looking wife.

Any father and mother might well be proud of this beautiful quartette, and I dare say that in their hearts the King and Queen of Italy are just like ordinary parents, and that they thrill with pride every time they look at the beautiful little group. BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

THE SEVEN DEADLY VIRTUES OF WOMEN---By DOROTHY DIX

NUMBER THREE MODESTY

THE third of the seven deadly virtues of women is Modesty.

Of course, in its place and in its way, and, above all, in moderate quantities, Modesty is a most admirable attribute in any woman.

A coarse woman, or a vulgar one—a woman who uses ribald language or tells off-colored stories—is one of the Frankensteins of civilization. She is a loathsome creature, from whom we all shudder away in disgust.

The ideal woman must always have about her something of the spotlessness of the lily and the shyness or the shrinking violet; yet for all of that, Modesty is one of the deadly virtues of women that can make the beholder more weary than anything else on earth.

Looks for Badness and Finds It

There are many reasons why this virtue should be one that easily leans to vice's side. To begin with, the overly modest woman is most shockingly immodest.

She sees evil where none was intended.

She is ready to blush at everything.

She is on the lookout for badness, and she never misses finding it.

It is said that one of these modest ladies once asked Dr. Samuel Johnson if he considered the nude in art vulgar. "No," replied the great lexicographer, "but the question is."

Perhaps there is no country in the world that has boasted so much of the modesty of its women and has in it such a number of prurient-minded prudes as America.

In the large cities education has reformed to a certain degree much of this immodest modesty, but in provincial communities squeamish spinsters still put petticoats on the legs of the pianos and consider it indecent to speak of human arms and legs as anything but "limbs."

This abnormal spirit of Modesty, which enables one to see vulgarity in everything, is also displayed by the otherwise estimable ladies who spend their time in trying to reform innocent things.

A few years ago, for instance, an organization of women tried to get the wax figures in show windows removed because they considered that the dummies used to display corsets and stockings had immoral tendencies.

Another lot of overly modest ladies demanded that the President should remove from the White House one of Watts' great allegorical pictures because the figures in it were nude; and it is no uncommon thing to hear of the blushing women belonging to some club for the suppression of vice working themselves up into a frenzy over the fact that despite their efforts the Apollo Belvidere is still as naked as truth.

Indeed, so modest are we that nobody would dare to put up a public statue that wasn't voluminously draped.

"Modesty" Most Immodest

Art suffers, but prudishness flourishes, and we have the solace of thinking how much better we are than the shameless foreigners who go to look at their galleries of chaste marbles and exquisite flesh tints without even so much as a blush or a dim suspicion that there is any vulgarity in a great artist reproducing the human form divine.

But our immodest Modesty, as regards art, is of comparatively little importance. What counts for evil is this atitude toward life itself; for we have made such a fetish of Modesty, and carried it so beyond all bounds of reason, that it becomes its own undoing.

There are, for example, certain dangers and temptations in life to which every young person is inevitably subject. They are fundamental facts of life. One may no more escape them than one may escape day or night, or eating, or breathing, or sleeping.

Curosity concerning the mystery of existence, the attraction of the sexes, passion, the magnetism of the individual—all these are just as much a part of every girl and boy as the blood in their veins; yet such is the modesty of mothers they cannot bring themselves to talk to their children about these vital topics.

They leave their sons and daughters to learn the sacred truths of life in the vulgar and coarsest way.

They know the dangers that beset an ignorant young girl, yet they are so modest that they run the risk of letting her be swept on to destruction rather than tell her the things that might be a guide and compass for her to steer by.

I have never yet heard a mature woman discuss this subject without her speaking with horror of things that she had done in utter ignorance in her youth, of chances that she had blindly taken that made her hair curl with fright as she looked back upon them.

Invariably these women have wondered why their mothers did not tell them, and yet the very same women were silent to their daughters. They were too modest to speak, although they knew that their girls' safety depended on it. Surely a high enough price to pay for a virtue gone to seed.

The quintessence of Modesty and idiocy is reached, however, in the reserve which keeps an engaged couple from coming to any real understanding about their future life before marriage.

It is not esteemed decent for the girl to raise any questions as to what sort of a past the man may have. She is not supposed to know that there are pasts.

Brides Sacrificed to It

It is not even considered modest of her to ask the young man of his present and to know just where he stands, financially and otherwise. A frank understanding of these matters might save her a world of regret later on, but she offers herself up as a sacrifice on the altar of Modesty.

And after all, what is Modesty?

It is a false god that most women worship ignorantly and blidly.

It is a cloak for the nasty-minded, who see in everything only what their evil imagination puts there, who gaze with lascivious eyes on beautiful pictures and statues and interpret lewd thoughts into glorious music.

To the pure all things are pure. There is nothing that a cleanly person may not see cleanly, and no subject that a chaste person may not discuss chastely.

It is time women should realize this, for the overly modest woman, who goes around blushing and shuddering at everything, makes sensible people so very, very weary.

The Clerk Buys a New Suit of Clothes

"GOOD mornig, Mr. Tremwell," said the cashier, deferentially.

"Good morning, Mr. Wibble," returned the bill clerk, with dignity.

The cashier rubbed his eyes with his knuckles and then pinched himself and cried "Ouch!" Wiping his hands ostentatiously on his handkerchief, he advanced and laid a cautious forefinger on the bill clerk's new suit.

"It's no dream," he muttered. "It's real. Quite real. I thought it might be a figment of a disordered imagination. I congratulate you. It's a wonderful improvement and they fit you as if they had been made for you."

"That's remarkable, considering that they were," said the bill clerk.

"What do they do if you fail on your instalments?" asked the cashier. "I've often wondered. How about it?"

"Ah, g'way!" said the bill clerk. "Quit your kidding."

"And a new necktie, new shoes and a new hat!" murmured the cashier. "Honest, if I didn't know you I'd say you were the petted darling of a millionaire papa. Doesn't it make you feel that way?"

The Tell-tale Ticket

"It does make a fellow feel pretty good to be right up to the handle once in a waile, doesn't it?" admitted the bill clerk, adjusting the shoulders of his coat to a wooden hanger that he had brought with him, wrapped in paper.

"Wait a minute," said the cashier. "The clerk's left some threads and a piece of the ticket on the trousers. You don't want to go around like that; it's a dead giveaway. Stand still till I get 'em out."

"The blamed chump!" exclaimed the bill clerk, with some annoyance. "He said he'd got 'em all out."

"He did," said the cashier. "That was merely a little sportiveness on my part. There weren't really any threads there. I gathered from what you said that a tailor had made the suit for you."

"Well," said the bill clerk, "you don't suppose a brickmason made it, do you? So far as their being made for me is concerned, I didn't say they were made for me intentionally. What's the difference as long as you get fitted? I don't need to pay $60 for a suit when I can get one like this for $60."

"For how much?" asked the cashier.

"I said $30," said the bill clerk. "That's all they cost me, too."

"Four dollars for the shoes and thirty-five cents for the tie," calculated the cashier. "You don't mean to tell me that you paid $10 for the hat, Johnny? Bring it out and let me look at it."

That Plaid Effect

"I said $30 for the suit, not for the outfit," said the bill clerk. "Do you think you could get clothes like these for $15?"

"No, I couldn't," said the cashier. "I wouldn't have the heart to. Not like that. If you didn't insist on the plaid effect and the flaring skirts, I might bring myself to buy a suit just as good for $15. If you paid more than $16.50 for it at the outside, you got beat, my poor boy.

"I happen to know something about goods. You can't deceive your Uncle Dudley. Next time you'd better take me along with you. How much did you pay for them, honest? Eighteen dollars?"

"They set me back precisely and exactly ten bright, pallid silver bucks, coin of the realm," replied the bill clerk.

The American Daily Short Story

AT LAST

By Edith E. M. Dart

BARBARA WARING had practically learned and mastered the difficult art of being poor when fate presented her whimsically with abundance.

She wondered at first what she was going to do with it all, and then ran off to the sea, to a household of merry, affectionate, noisy creatures she had once schooled and loved. They made much of her in their own breezy fashion, quite unaffected by her change of circumstances, except that it gave such an unfailing excuse for teasing.

She was discovering among them that the girl in herself was not so much crushed and dead as neglected. She kept cropping up and asserting herself in the most unlooked-for daily fashion.

"You are getting prettier and younger every day, Mother Bab," one of the girls exclaimed. "Isn't she, Edward?" The man's watching eyes had a sudden spark of something new and strange. Barbara's cheeks flamed. The man saw it and began to talk instantly with much detail of something else. She thanked him for it secretly, but with that barb implanted by the careless schoolgirl hand rankling.

It was so long that a man had looked at her with that flash in his eyes.

When she was twenty she met a man obviously attracted by herself, not by any of her attributes—music, deftness, or mental quickness of perception—but by herself. He was not in earnest; it was a Summer's amusement, no more!

She emerged from the silent conflict altered only to herself.

Edward Banks was an elder son of the house by another marriage. He was removed by age and a certain difference, not so much age as a change of mental outlook, from the merry, pleasure-loving throng of half-brothers and sisters, whom he secretly protected from themselves at every turn. He was inevitably the arbiter of family destinies in his quiet, conclusive way of decision.

Barbara stepped into the family attitude straightway. Oddly enough, although her years and his own tallied, she regarded him much as his young sisters did, to his own amusement at first. Lately a vague doubt crept in. It was never expressly defined, not even when his flashing eyes set her pulses dancing on the Summer afternoon when they sat looking at the blue waters of the bay.

Sending the Letter

He hid his feelings far less cleverly than he imagined from their object. She was continually averting their slight expression, scheming against betrayal and against her own response day after day, until she felt forced to act. She dispatched a letter that would bring her a telegram and she would fly.

Barbara thought not of the beauty of the evening, but of how desolate she would be to-morrow night away from them all, alone! The sound of her own name broke in.

"Why! You will be all by yourself tonight, Ba, you and Ted. I had forgotten we are all going out to this pastoral play rehearsal thing. How rude of us"—the speaker laughed without penitence. "You must entertain one another, Ba; play to him. Old Ted would like that——"

"He would," interpolated Edward.

"And if he's good he may smoke in the drawing room; he could never be happy after dinner without."

They went off in a body, bearing fiddles, mandolin, guitar and stage properties. "We shall be back at 10."

Without a word to each other the two left moved away. Barbara went upstairs to the drawing room, its many windows open to the sea that entered like a song. She did not attempt to play for some time, but sat in the peace of the deserted room listening, fearing a step on the stairs. None came. He was smoking, after all, downstairs in his own room. She need not imagine her music was inducement to bring him here, she told herself, yet, just for tonight, the very last night——. Edward was standing in the doorway.

"Shall I play? What would you like?" She did not wait for his answer, but began. The man, listening, knew that it was his presence, his obvious presence, that kept the magic out of her melody.

As she ceased a servant entered with a telegram. She was looking at it unopened when he came back. She knew escape was too late.

"Come outside. You have had enough music."

"You mean you have," she corrected, trying to talk lightly.

"You sometimes make a mistake about me," he said abruptly.

The Black Gown

A little fold of her gown trailed across the bench as they sat. He took it between his fingers. "I like your shadowy black frocks. I don't like women, as a rule, in black gowns. This is like twilight, fine and frail. Is that why you chose it, Barbara?"

For the first time he called her by her name. She was dumb. There was piercing swiftly through her distaste and fear, something stronger. He tried to see her face in the gloom.

From sheer incapacity to finesse he took the one course that convinced—the direct one.

"I want you," he said. "It's not the way to put it; men don't say it bluntly like that—men who know how to woo. I never did, never tried, never wanted to before. I am too old to learn the rules of the difficult game. I only repeat I want you. Does it seem enough?"

He took her trembling hands.

"I want you to marry me. After all, it's what they come to in the end, those pretty tricks and speeches, those byways I can't learn. Let it bring me near you."

"But if I can't?"

There was an edge, half malice, half unconcealed content in her voice.

"You must! I'll have to try and learn the other fellow's methods if you won't come to me like this!"

She shuddered, and for an instant, in the inexplicable ebb and flow of emotion, she seemed carried from him.

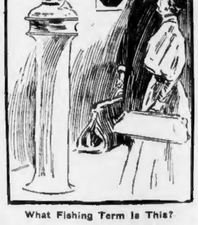
"You don't know me yet," he went on; "you have taken other people's views of me. I shall be different to you—quite different, if you will let me show you myself, apart from everybody else. I have a prophetic feeling about us—I had it from the beginning. I suspect I am going to make you want me, more than you know."

Insurgence returned—was overflowing all.

"You can't make me want you more ——." She broke off laughing, then suddenly said, "Don't you see—why."

He did, though to the latest day of their life together he could never be brought to understand how it came about.

DAILY PUZZLE PICTURE
Things in Fishing



What Fishing Term Is This?

ANSWER

....

ONE of the puzzle pictures is published daily in the BOSTON AMERICAN. Twenty dollars in prizes will be given weekly for the best answers.

The $20 in prizes will be divided as follows:

First prize	$10
Second prize	5
Five prizes of $1 each	5
Total	$20

Cut out the puzzle picture each day, write your answer on each, and mail the complete set of seven to the Puzzle Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street, with your best suggestion as to what you would like to see in the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

Where lists are equally correct the prizes will be given to those making the best suggestions.

The list of prize-winners of last week's contest, together with the final picture of this week's series, will be printed in next SUNDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN.

What Do You Think of the Sheath Gown?

WHAT do YOU think of the new sheath gown? Is it beautiful and artistic, do you think, or is it immodest? The question is raised by the letter printed below, which has been received from a reader of the AMERICAN. As one woman, she doesn't like the sheath gown, and she says so frankly.

Here is a discussion in which the readers of the AMERICAN are invited to join. Send in your opinions, for and against the sheath gown, addressed Editor Woman's Page, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street, Boston. The letter from the woman reader of the AMERICAN, protesting against the new costume for women, is as follows:

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Let the optimists smile as they will, the new sheath gown will mark 1908 as an important period in American history. It tells the rapid pace at which Americans are succumbing to foreign evils and decadence; it forecasts a revolution.

The gown in a modified form, as you know, means a more exaggerated form of it the next year and the next. Off the stage, no self-respecting American woman with a modicum of feelings for the interests of humanity will think of adopting it. No full-fledged American husband will permit his wife to do so. It should be denounced by the press and authorities throughout our land.

More thinking beneath the surface will promote a better understanding of the present day evils. What say you?

RUTH SCHOFIELD REYNOLDS.
Mount Vernon street, Boston.

Irish China

AN exceedingly beautiful eggshell china has just been brought to this country. It is reported as having been made in Ireland, and it is the most lustrous china on the market. It is oyster white, with a few lights showing through it like those in polished mother-of-pearl. In fact, it resembles the inner side of an oyster shell.

BRIDE'S CAKE

TWO and a half cups of flour, one and one-half cups of sugar, one-half cup of butter, one-half cup of milk, three teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of almond extract, one-half teaspoon of cream of tartar and whites of six eggs. Cream the butter, add sugar gradually, flour sifted with baking powder, flavoring, lastly the eggs (whites) beaten stiff, with the cream of tartar. Bake fifty minutes. Frost with white frosting. MISS SULLIVAN.

No. 450 Washington street, Brookline.

BANANA PUDDING

ONE quart of milk, three eggs, one tablespoonful of cornstarch, a pinch of salt and one cup of sugar. Cook in double boiler until it thickens, leaving out whites of eggs for frosting. After removing from stove add six bananas sliced.

MRS. VERNA KEENE.
No. 72 Montgomery street, Boston.

Expert Hints on Beauty

By the Professor

FOR FALLING HAIR

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Will you kindly advise me what to do for falling hair? My hair used to be thick until a month ago, when it began to fall out. I have tried vaseline for the eyebrows, but that does not thicken them, so I don't think it would help the hair any. Would you advise me to try a hair restorative?

ANXIOUS NO. 1.

TRY the following tonic once or twice a day, well but gently rubbed into the scalp: Two grams phenic acid, 7½ grams nux vomica, 30 grams tincture of red cinchona, 2 grams tincture of cantharides, 120 grams cologne, 60 grams sweet almond oil. Apply to the roots of the hair once or twice a day by massaging gently at the same time. This is especially good if the hair is very dry. The same tonic will be good for the eyebrows, but whatever you use for this purpose must be carefully kept from getting inside the eyes.

MAKE HAIR FLUFFY

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Will you kindly tell me something to take the oil out of my hair? I was told to use borax in the water when I wash my hair, but it does it no good. Also how often the hair should be washed, and something to make it fluffy? F. A. D.

SHAMPOO the hair only when actually necessary for the purpose of cleanliness, and between times brush the scalp with corn meal and orris root in the proportion of a tablespoonful of the latter to a teacupful of the former. Also wipe the scalp every few night with a soft, old linen cloth wet with alcohol. Use egg shampoo and with all this care your hair should be fluffy if your health is good.

DANDRUFF, ITCHING SCALP

DEAR PROFESSOR:

I am a man of twenty-four and have been troubled with dandruff, itching scalp and my hair has been falling out very fast. I have had above trouble for the past year or so. Please be kind enough to insert some remedy in your column that would help me.

TRAVELER.

TO remove dandruff take one ounce of tincture of cantharides, one dram of liquid ammonia, half an ounce of glycerin, half a dram each of oil of thyme and oil of rosemary. Mix all of these with six ounces of rosewater and rub the scalp thoroughly with the lotion until the dandruff disappears. Open up the hair as much as possible to the air and give it a good sun bath every day. When you have cured the scalp of dandruff the hair will probably stop coming out. But in the meantime you should look to your general health, as the same condition will return if it was caused in the first place by some systemic trouble.

How to Make Milk Safe for Children

SCIENTIFIC investigations have proved that milk in a raw state should never be given to children. Those who cannot buy pasteurized milk should pasteurize it at home. This can be done by observing these simple directions:

1—Bring the milk slowly to a boil, and when it reaches the boiling point bottle it instantly, cork tightly and cool it.

2—Never feed milk that is more than twenty-four hours old to an infant.

3—Keep the milk near ice, and never leave a milk bottle uncorked.

4—Cleanse and scald all bottles before refilling.

Careful observance of these directions will insure against babies contracting disease from impure milk.

Tomorrow's Best Bargains

Money-Savers for Thrifty Shoppers Selected by an Expert

A LOT OF SMART LITTLE RUSSIAN dresses, in sizes from two years to five years, made of the neatest striped and checked percale, will be offered by R. H. White Co. to-morrow special at 35 cents each. These are regular 50-cent dresses, to be on sale just one day at this reduced price.

IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO PURCHASE a good hammock at a bargain you will find a lot of the regular $1.98 kind at the Boston Department Store to-morrow that will be placed on sale for one day at $1.49. These are strongly made hammocks, are extra wide, very close weave, with fringed sides and full pillow and may be had in all the desirable colorings.

HENRY SIEGEL CO. WILL reduce and place on sale to-morrow one lot of white skirts that have been selling special at $1.25, and mark them 98 cents for one day's selling. There are two different styles, one with deep flounce of cluny insertion tucking and edging and the other of fine tucking and hamburg. They are made full, with deep underpiece, and are splendid values.

TO-MORROW, AT FILENE'S, ABOUT twenty hats, suitable for girls from five years to fourteen years, that were formerly sold for $3.95 and $5, will be marked to close out at $1.89. In the lot will be found several different styles in tailored and also a few trimmed hats that are bargains. They are trimmed with ribbon, quills and pompons.

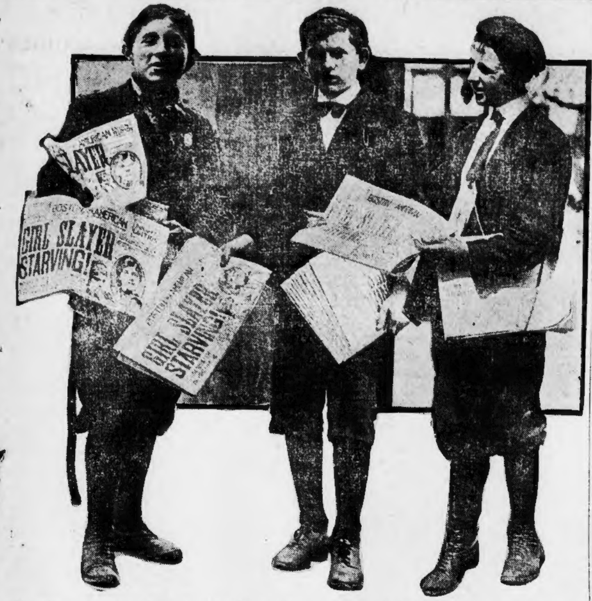
AS A SPECIAL FOR THURSDAY, Houghton & Dutton will place on sale a new lot of short kimonas at 14 cents each. They are made of polka dot lawn with stitched edge of contrasting color, and are really bargains at this price.

AN ASSORTMENT OF STUDDED ELASTIC and black velvet belts that were $1 will be marked to 45 cents to-morrow at James A. Houston's. The studded belts have a pretty two-piece cut steel buckle, and may be had in all the popular colors. The velvet belts have two-piece front buckle and back piece of cut steel.

WEDNESDAY AT J. G. Small's you will find an odd lot of beautiful lingerie waists on sale at greatly reduced prices. Most every waist in the lot were formerly $3.98 and $4.98, but as they are slightly soiled have been marked to sell at $1.08. There are some daintily made models of batiste, lawn and linens, trimmed with fine laces and hand work.

JUST FOR THURSDAY'S SELLING AT MacDonnell's Tremont Temple Store several boxes of tourist ruching (six yards in a box) will be placed on sale for 8 cents. This is a rare opportunity to purchase a new supply of ruchings for the Summer waists at a very small cost.

PLEASANT LITTLE SURPRISE IN STORE DAILY FOR GREATER BOSTON NEWSBOYS



Three Boston American Newsboy prize winners—Morris Wolfson of No. 40 Morris street, East Boston, at corner of Washington and Boylston streets; Nathan Stoltnick of No. 4 Stillman street, at corner of Bromfield and Washington streets, and Max Krupnick of No. 17 Cherry street, at subway exit, corner of Boylston and Tremont streets.

Here's a pleasant little surprise for the newsboys of Greater Boston.

Beginning with the three lads whose pictures are published to-day the BOSTON AMERICAN is going to give away daily until further notice a crisp one dollar bill to each newsboy who, offering the BOSTON AMERICAN for sale and holding out a copy of the paper so that the name can be seen plainy from a distance, comes within the range of the AMERICAN'S snapshot man.

Every boy who sells the BOSTON AMERICAN stands a chance of getting one of the prizes. The only requirement is that he must hold the paper out conspicuously, so that everybody can see what paper he is selling. The snapshot man, with a camera under his arm, is liable to start out at any time of day, and there is no telling in what direction he will start.

Surprise for Newsboys.

Yesterday he snapped little Nathan Stoltnick of No. 4 Stillman street at the corner of Bromfield and Washington streets. Then he went to the Subway exit at Boylston and Tremont streets and snapped Max Krupnick of No. 17 Cherry street. Morris Wolfson of No. 40 Morris street, East Boston, came within range of the camera at Boylston and Washington streets.

None of these boys will know anything about their good fortune until they read about it to-day in the BOSTON AMERICAN.

Easy money, eh?

The snapshot man when he starts out again to-day may go in entirely different directions. And he may appear again in the same three places. There's no telling.

Watch out, boys! Keep on the hustle and keep your AMERICANS right up where they can be seen. The winners of three more prizes will be announced to-morrow, and the smallest and youngest newsboys in the city stand as good a chance of winning them as the largest and oldest.

WANTS GIBLIN RESTRAINED

In the Superior Court to-day Fenni Sudhalter petitioned for an injunction to restrain Thomas F. Giblin, East Boston politician, and the Boris Soap Company from removing an engine, three boilers, an elevator and other machinery from a building on Chelsea street. Sudhalter sets forth that he bought the land, buildings and machinery, and believes that Giblin and the soap company intend to remove the machinery. An order of notice, returnable to-morrow was issued by Judge Fox.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOSTON, MASS. 96

At a largely attended meeting of Stationary Firemen No. 242 last night Business Agent Lennon reported that the Hotel Clarendon had agreed to an eight hour and overtime basis and that another large Back Bay hotel was about to do the same. President E. J. Sheehan, who has been appointed general organizer by the international organization, reported that the new local which he had organized in Fall River would hold a meeting on Saturday, June 13, at which International Vice-President Healey and Organizer Sheehan would attend.

Arrangements are practically completed for the state convention of engineers which will be held at Wells Memorial, No. 987 Washington street, on June 25. Practically every local in the State has signified its intention of sending delegates. President Sheehan was elected delegate to the Faneuil Hall protest meeting to be held June 30 under the auspices of the State Branch of the American Federation of Labor.

The executive committee will hold a special meeting next Friday night.

Painters, No. 11, have appointed a committee to assist the district council to arrange for a harbor trip on July 5. A large tug will be chartered and a day's outing enjoyed. The committee in charge of the fund to assist the members who suffered loss through the Chelsea fire made a few payments last night, practically closing up their work. A report will be sent into the International headquarters by Sunday, June 22. The international officers have voted to suspend the taxes on those Chelsea members who are unable to pay them until such time as they may be able to resume payment. Four new members were admitted.

LABOR NOTES.

Piano and Organ Workers No. 19 last night voted to adopt the amendment to the constitution calling for international conventions to be held once in five years, the next to be in 1911. A referendum vote is under discussion on the matter of electing international officers by referendum ballot. Business was reported as improving.

Web Pressmen No. 3 held a special meeting last night at Wells Memorial Hall, at which John J. O'Hare, Ed. J. McGrady and Michael McCarthy were instructed on the 10 per cent. assessment which will be voted upon at the international convention to which they are delegates. The strike of the Cigar Factory Strippers was indorsed and the secretary instructed to send a communication to the cigar manufacturer involved.

It is said that plans are now under way which will result in one of the biggest railroad brotherhoods in this country being formed. It is the intention of the leaders to amalgamate the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Ways Employes. It is estimated that the combined membership will be 125,000.

Shop and Mill Hands No. 1410 have elected the following officers: President, James Rowe; vice-president, P. W. Costello; recording secretary, L. G. Brown; financial secretary, Ira E. Worcester; treasurer, H. M. Harding; conductor, D. Fitzgerald; warden, John Clark; business agent, Charles N. Kimball; auditor, Charles N. Kimball; trustee, John Olsen; delegates to the Carpenters' District Council, James Rowe, Charles N. Kimbal and D. Fitzgerald.

Wharf and Bridge Carpenters No. 1303 have elected the following officers: President, John C. McDonald; vice-president, Allen McPhee; recording secretary, Edward P. Gates; financial secretary, Joseph E. Kelley; treasurer, Seymour Coffin; conductor, John McEachern; warden, Philip Kennedy; trustee, John A. McDonald; delegates to the Building Trades Section of Boston C. L. U., J. E. Kelley, T. Williams and Allen McPhee.

Madam, Think of This.

A cow in your kitchen, with rich milk or cream always ready when wanted.

No waiting for the milkman. No shortage, no waste.

No uncertainty about the kind of milk you are getting.

No germs in your milk; no chance for infection.

Does the idea appeal to you?

That is just what we offer, and what hundreds of your neighbors are getting.

It is Van Camp's Milk.

Not a condensed milk—not a milk with sugar in it.

Van Camp's is nothing but milk—rich Holstein milk—with two-thirds the water evaporated.

Produced in sanitary dairies, from inspected cows, under clean conditions. Then sterilized.

Nothing is altered, nothing added.

You can't think of a reason for using milkman's milk in place of Van Camp's.

This is more convenient.

You open a can when you want it. You never have too little, never too much.

Van Camp's is economical.

Reduce it to cream, and it costs but half what you now pay for cream.

Reduce it to milk and it costs about what your milkman charges.

But you have no waste. The saving in a year is enormous.

Never a woman will depend on her milkman after once using Van Camp's.

For Cooking

You don't know how good a milk dish can be until you use Van Camp's.

Here you get the whole richness of milk—all of the butter fat, all of the solids.

But, when milk stands in a can, the butter fat rises. You get it then only from the top of the can.

How often do you get the top milk?

The delicious flavor you get in your cooking is due to the richness of the whole milk.

Please learn what it means.

We publish an excellent cook book, showing the exact cost of all sorts of milk dishes. Please write for it—it's free. Address Van Camp Packing Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Van Camp's Milk

Evaporated—Sterilized—Unsweetened

Prices: 5c and 10c per can, at your grocer's. It is cheaper still by the case of 48 cans. You will buy it in that way when you know it.

HAMMOND NOW ON VOTING LIST AT GLOUCESTER

GLOUCESTER, June 10.—John Hays Hammond, the mining engineer who is believed by some to have received as high a salary as $1,000,000 a year, arrived in this city to-day with his son and namesake and took another step to further his fight for the Republican nomination for Vice-President. He registered as a voter in the city of Gloucester, where he has a beautiful Summer home. When seen at City Hall by a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter, he said:

"I have been receiving a great deal of encouragement from the West, especially in the mining districts, regarding my candidacy. Things are looking very favorable, I think. If the convention wants a New England man for second place on the ticket and picks Governor Guild, I shall do all I can to help him. If, on the other hand, the convention desires a man not born in New England, but one who has a residence here, I shall expect Mr. Guild to aid me."

Mr. Hammond called on Postmaster Brown, Collector Jordan, members of the Business Men's Association, the Board of Trade and other prominent citizens. He said he should go to Boston late to-day and from there proceed to Washington.

CONVICTS PRAY FOR CONDEMNED SLAYER

CHICAGO, Ill., June 10.—Herman Billik, a fortune-teller, accused of six murders by poison and under sentence of death, was accorded singular distinction by his fellow-prisoners of the Cook county jail, when 400 of the inmates knelt and prayed that the man might not be executed next Friday.

JUDGE M'KIM SUCCUMBS TO BRIEF ILLNESS

Ex-Judge John W. McKim of the Suffolk County Probate Court is dead at his home, No. 1 Maple place, Jamaica Plain. He had been in poor health, however, for some time. The end came yesterday.

He retired from the bench of the probate court only last July, having served as presiding justice in that court for thirty years.

Judge McKim was born in Boston November 25, 1822. He studied law in Washington with Dent D. Grammer, and began practice.

While in the capital he was elected to the Washington City Council, and spent several years in close contact with municipal affairs. From Washington he went to Ohio, and became district attorney for Defiance county, in that State.

He served in the Civil War and reached the rank of captain, with the brevet of major, in the quartermatser's department at Boston.

It was not until 1867 that he resumed his law practice in this city, being admitted to the bar in April of that year. After serving as representative to the General Court in 1870 and 1871, he began the year 1874 as presiding justice of the West Roxbury Municipal Court at its establishment under Governor Rice. Three years later the same executive appointed him judge of the Probate Court and of the Court of Insolvency. In 1907, being then eighty-five years of age, he resigned, and was retired on a pension.

PLAGUE IS SPREADING.

KINGSTON, Jam., June 10.—Advices from the Island of Trinidad show that up to yesterday there had been reported seven cases of bubonic plague and five deaths from the disease there.

LADY EILEEN GOES ON ROCKS; CREW IS SAVED

DALHOUSIE, N. B., June 10.—The steamer Lady Eileen was wrecked on Newport Island, off Newport, Que. The passengers and crew were landed safely, but the vessel will be a total loss. The vessel left here Saturday with a full cargo of freight and several passengers for ports in Bay Chaleur and Gasp, in charge of Captain McPherson.

The day was the hottest of the season and a gale of warm wind was encountered when the vessel reached the gulf, and in entering Newport Harbor she was blown against Newport Island, where she struck upon the rocks and filled rapidly.

The Lady Eileen has a gross tonnage of 931 and a net tonnage of 526. She was 168 feet two inches long, thirty-one feet wide, with a depth of nineteen feet six inches.

BACK FROM WEST, ANDREWS JAILED

Brought to Salem to-day from Seattle, where he was arrested by State Police Officer Arthur Wells and Chief of Police Ferguson of Beverly on the charge of forgery to the amount of $10,000, John Andrews of Beverly, former treasurer of the North Shore Electric Company, was arraigned before Judge Stevens in the Superior Criminal Court at Salem this morning. He pleaded not guilty, and was held in bonds of $15,000. In default of bail he went to jail.

HOTEL KEEPER VICTIM OF BOLD HOLD UP BAND

John H. Lane, a wealthy Montreal hotel keeper, was the victim of a bold band of hold-up men in the West End early to-day, and as a result he is minus a valuable gold watch and chain and some money, while James W. Warner, twenty-five, of No. 10 North Anderson street; Harry Griffin, thirty-nine, of No. 101 Poplar street, and Charles E. Doherty, eighteen, of the same address, are under arrest charged with the crime.

The hold-up tok place near the corner of Spring and Milton streets, and had it not been for the prompt arrival of Patrolman Morgan, who seized two of the men while all four were in a fierce battle, it is believed that Lane would have been seriously injured.

On the arrival of the officer the three men made a dash to escape, but Doherty alone was successful. After bringing his prisoners to the Joy street station, Morgan returned to the Poplar street residence and found Doherty in bed and brought him to the station house.

The chain was recovered, but no trace can be had of the watch or money.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY ON BREAK CHARGE

James Hannon of No. 194 Athens street, charged with breaking and entering the barroom of Loudousky & Youdaco in South Boston early this morning and stealing $14 worth of cigars and whiskey, was held for the Superior Court to-day by Judge Fallon in the South Boston Municipal Criminal Court.

SOLDIERS FIELD, June 10.—Cornell's diamond warriors faced the Crimson on the diamond and were due to get the same kind of treatment that was handed the crew from Ithica.

Harvard's recent showing instilled lots of confidence in the student supporters who thronged the stands to cheer their team to victory.

The fact that the team had struck a batting streak gave the undergraduates courage for the Yale game and more bingles were looked for against the Cornellians.

It was practically the same line-up on the field to play Cornell that will represent Harvard against the Blue later in the month and every player was anxious to show at his best.

Hartford, the veteran pitcher, was the selection by Coach Piper to go against Cornell and if he showed steadiness he was likely to get a chance against the Elis.

ELESIA SETS A NEW TRIAL FOR 3-YEAR-OLDS

James Hanley of Providence came up to see his three-year-old filly, Elesia, by Bingen, out of Elesta, 2:08¾, do a nice little stunt in a workout over Readville, and was greatly pleased in seeing Henry Titer let her step a mile in 2:10.

It was the fastest mile to date by a three-year-old over a New England track this year, but she did it so easy that there was no question she could have gone much faster had the question been put to her.

Elesia is entered in the big futurity stakes of the season, and while she will contend with many stars of the two-year-old brigade of last year, yet experienced horsemen predict for her a most brilliant campaign.

Titer, too, set a new trotting record at Readville for the year by working Aquin in 2:14¼, the final half in 1:06½. He is entered in the most important stakes down the Grand Circuit, and has only to keep in form to make good.

Fred Hyde was right back of the season's record in asking Mae Heart to turn the course in 2:14½. Hyde says that Aleyell, 2:06¼, is very liable to be out of the hunt, but there are those who remember his having declared the same last year and then later cleaning up all in sight by winning at a short price at Columbus.

DONAHUE NEARLY PUT AWAY IN THE FIRST

The talent nearly got a hard bump in that mitt-fest the Armory A. A. staged for its members, between Young Donahue, Roxbury's pride and George Memsic, the Bohemian from Los Angeles, for the lights almost went out for "Nigger", as Donahue is familiarly known among his friends.

The Roxbury sports had a narrow escape from wearing mourning to-day, as their pet was on the verge of being put to dreamland in the very first round of the setto.

After the near disastrous ending Donahue proceeded by uphill work to get back lost ground, and at the end of twelve rounds, when Referee Donnolley announced a draw there was little criticism to offer.

While Memsic did not win the decision, he certainly did take the prize for gameness, as he fought the entire distance with his right hand smashed, the result of coming in contact with Donahue's head in the opening round when he was doing his best to put over the punch which would end the mill.

He cracked his knuckle in one of his swings, but no one was aware of it but those in his corner, and he kept on using the hand with slighty more caution than if it had not been disabled.

Donahue Was Too Clever.

The fistic warfare was waged evenly for most of the distance, Donahue's superior cleverness offsetting the aggressiveness and rushing tactics of the Coast boy, whose only chance was to connect with a punch which would do damage, as Donahue had him buffaloed on his left jabs and inside work.

Memsic got right down to business at the breakaway and went to Donahue, swinging either hand, sending them over so fast that the Roxbury boy could not time them, and one solid right caught him squarely on the jaw and he wobbled, covering his head, while Memsic drove him around the ring, plastering on rights and lefts, but unable even to put the local lad to his knees. Donahue sought to clinch but was too dazed to get close enough, yet kept footing it around the ropes. Memsic pulled back to swing the haymaker, but the moving Donahue never got it flush, and the bell came in time to save his scalp.

Donahue caught his stride all right in the second round and kept his head out of the way of Memsic's swings, pumping left stabs and counting heavily on the body with left hooks and meeting Memsic on the body with strong right welts, as the Bohemian came rushing in.

The difference in cleverness between the two boys was very noticeable. Memsic had nothing to show but his ruggedness and willingness to wade in, swinging wildly, which made it an easy matter for Donahue to score on him, but it was his determined methods of going to Donahue which earned him a draw, as the Hub boy had him beaten when it came to a match on points.

There was scarcely a round when Donahue did not jab his foe and get inside effectively, but the power of his blows was lacking, as Memsic never displayed any signs of distress. Donahue planted many stinging hooks to the mid-section and at short arm work in clinches appeared to better advantage.

Memsic Had the Punch.

Memsic, with his dangerous punch, and Donahue with his expertness, were the two features of the bout. Just how Memsic went twenty rounds with such a wonderful performer as Joe Gans is hard to fathom, after seeing him show with Donahue, as he left himself open to attack by blind rushing, and on several occasions Donahue just missed by a hair, rippling in uppercuts to the jaw which would have swayed victory his way had they landed.

The tryouts between would-be champions of four rounds each would have made the Marquis of Queensbury shudder at some of the strange antics the embryo mitt artists went through. The screecher of the half dozen mixups was a meeting of two coal black tornadoes in Young Slater of Boston and another, assuming the handle of Jack Johnson, Jr., of Goldfield. They slashed away as if intent on making a meal of each other, but Johnson's shadow appeared to stand up better under the slamming and got the verdict.

The other bouts resulted as follows: Young Nippo, Charlestown, beat Jack Meirs, Revere, one round; Kid McDonald and Young Dixon, draw; Young Falon beat Connaty, one round; Young Sheehy beat Young Burns, four rounds; Gus Rogers beat McArthur, four rounds.

WORLD'S SPEEDWAY RECORD MADE BY MY STAR IN 59S

BY ED. COGSWELL.

My Star, the real pacing planet of the Crabtree stable two seasons ago down the Grand Circuit, when he earned a record of 2:03¼ in the hottest of society, and was sold at auction last Fall for a few hundred dollars to F. M. Burke, through having been accounted a "has been," has now established himself an "isser" by making a world's speedway pacing record in the sixth weekly Spring matinee of the Metropolitan Driving Club at Charles River Speedway through not only winning the initial heat in the heretofore unheard of time of 59 seconds, but by gathering to himself the second heat in 59¾ seconds, thus earning both the one and two fastest heats ever made in the history of speedway racing.

He was matched to race against Phoebon W. (2:08¾) and Mardel in the fast class, but when the roll call was given for the horses to appear F. W. Bennett, owner of Mardel, considered it better to withdraw his pacer than to go out and likely suffer defeat; hence he was reported to have given out the story that from now on his gelding would not be a party to matinee sport, but would in the future be a contestant in the professional game where the real money was hung out.

Only to Laugh.

The yarn was only to cause a laugh among the members in the clubhouse, for while they considered Mardel a crackerjack in the racing sport at half-mile heats, yet when it ever comes to entering society (no matter what the class) for mile heats, he would have to show those from Missouri that he might even beat a hound at mile heats, and, in consequence, it would have been far better for Bennett to have taken the offer of Frank Smith, manager of the Crabtree stable, of $1,000 for his horse, than to have forsaken the speedway sport for a fly at mile-heat racing.

M. Holden, owner of Phoebon W., was that game to say his gelding would contest the decision for the better pacer, not counting that Phoebon W. had been laid up for more than a week through having struck himself at the Combination Park meeting, May 30. He had Al Furbush drive the gelding, as usual in the speedway races, who cleverly kept right in striking distance in each of the heats. Though defeated, the spectators appreciated the game efforts of the owner, driver and horse and liberally applauded the finishes.

Arnold Lawson came out to the speedway with blood in his eye. He had not only to drive his great filly, Lady Dreamer, but Walter Farmer has requested him to do his duty behind his gelding, J. E. C., for this and the matinee next week. He made it his plan to clean all in sight without any questions.

Lawson Was Worried.

Then he carried off that part relating to his own mare, Lady Dreamer, in straight heats, though in the second trip he nearly had heart disease because F. C. Garmon had not a particle of mercy in driving Red Bird a most desperate finish, only being beaten at the wire in 1:02½ by a good neck.

This was the class in which Isaac Sexton was supposed to have raced his stallion, Tom Phair. In not having been a participant, Sexton said the sole reason that he was compelled to give his trotter a rest was because he was in bad shape from having mud fever, which caused one of his hind legs to swell to some three times its ordinary size.

Dolly K. practically demonstrated that she is in the same class with Chase by winging her opponents off the reel, after having lost the opening heat to J. E. C., the gelding that was the second part of Arnold Lawson's matinee play, in 1:04½, her time being 1:02, 1:04.

Axtelloid Made Good.

Axtelloid, one of the best speedway trotters that has paraded with success over the Franklin Field and Mystic Park Speedways, made his debut in the Charles River, and made good by cleaning up his opponents in 1:05½ and 1:05¼, and proved he is well worth watching in the future.

E. A. Bayley, who made so much talk around the clubhouse at the monthly sessions that there were a few confident he was only speaking through his hat, for in the racehorse argument he must be compelled to forever keep his silence, carried off the blue ribbon with his gelding Pandorus in straight heats in a field of six.

Earl King Marched in 1:02½.

G. D. Merrill had considered taking his trotter Earl King for road driving, but there was so much discussion over his attempting the fact that he turned his trotter once more for the word. He won and stepped the last heat in 1:02½, driven out by Crown Prince, another newcomer in the races.

"Sonny" Craig was right in the hunt with his pacer Billy F., as it seemed simply play for him to boil over his opposition in the very creditable time of 1:02. The other winners of the matinee were Elmwood, in 1:07½, May Patchen, in 1:05¾, Cassandra, in 1:08½, Dean Swift, in 1:05, losing the second heat to Lanter in 1:03½; Billy Ilkes, in 1:08½; Little Sidney, in 1:03, losing the second heat to Billy Mack in 1:03¾, and Lady Ethel, in 1:10.

WILLIE LEWIS BEATS HARRY

NEW YORK, June 10.—Willie Lewis of New York and Harry Lewis of Philadelphia met in a fast six-round bout before the National Athletic Club, the former having the better of the milling. Harry Lewis showed to best advantage in the exchanges at close range.

QUILL AND ERNE AGAIN.

A bout which is likely to be put on by the Armory A. A. is one between Tommy Quill and Young Erne. They want to settle that draw which was the decision the last time they met.

MAINE LEAGUE TO OPEN TODAY

BANGOR, June 10.—The Maine League baseball season will open to-day, with Lewiston at Bangor and Portland at South Portland. The games in Bangor will be played in series of four, on account of the distance between this city and the other league cities.

To-day Bangor will present a rather picked up team, but during the week it will be strengthened, and when the team goes to Portland next week it will probably be in good condition to break even, at least. Collins and Burrington, the University of Vermont battery, are likely to be signed by Bangor.

There are fifty-four games in the league schedule, beginning June 10 and ending September 12.

The Bangor grounds, in Maplewood Park, have been put in fine condition and a new grandstand built. Baseball fever is running high here, and there is no doubt of the success of the club, which is controlled by an association of some of the leading business men of the city.

M'CONNELL PASSES TWENTY THOUSAND VOTING NOTCH

McConnell is the second to have passed the 20,000 notch in the BOSTON AMERICAN Baseball Contest for the most popular professional and amateur player, and is rapidly overhauling the leader, "Old Cy" Young, for first position. In this respect it is a peculiar fact that in the Sunday mails not a coupon was received for the "grand old man" of the diamond.

In the amateur ranks the leaders, Cardio and Broders, are evidently playing a waiting game, the followers of each being apparently perfectly willing to lay on their oars for a final rush of votes at the finish. Brophy of the English High has passed Curran of the Madison A. C., in the last figuring, while Currier of Harvard has moved up a peg in the standing.

Baseball fans can see the two elegant prize cups the BOSTON AMERICAN will award the players getting the most votes, professional and amateur, in the show window at No. 264 Washington street. The present standing of the contestants follows:

MURPHY STOPS DUNN IN FOURTH

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., June 10.—After Johnny Dunn of Pittsburg had been knocked down five times in the fourth round of what was to have been a six-round match with Harlem Tommy Murphy his seconds threw up the sponge. Dun was knocked down nine times during the fight.

ARMORY TEAM AFTER GAMES.

The Armory A. A. Baseball team have open dates on next Saturday and also June 17, and would like to arrange games with any strong semi-professional teams away from home. Any out-of-town teams desiring to play the strong South End ball tossers can arrange games by writing Mish J. Murray or telephone Tremont 141.

DORCHESTER MATINEE OFF

There will be no matinee at the Franklin Field Speedway the coming Saturday on account of the Dorchester Driving Club having a big field day at Combination Park June 17, and the running races at Brookline opening the last day of the week.

Most of the horses owned by members of the club have been entered in the several events over the Medford track next Wednesday, and wishing to show at their best in the races the members no not feel that it would be wise to start in speedway races so soon before the bigger attraction.

HOWE IS YALE'S CAPTAIN.

NEW HAVEN, June 10.—Howe, the hurdler, has been elected captain of the Yale track team.

FAST RIDERS IN TEAM RACE AT REVERE OVAL

A team race which will be a hummer is on the card at the Revere track Saturday when Hugh MacLean and Patsy Logan will meet John Bedell and Nat Butler in a thirty-mile scrap.

The pairings show that it will be a contest in which it is practically impossible to pick a winner, so even do they look.

MacLean, the acknowledged best rider, has Logan to help him out, while Bedell, who showed what he could do last Winter on the indoor track, has a steady partner in Butler. It will be settled by points.

If MacLean leads at the finish he will have five points, and if his partner, Logan, should be fourth he will get one point, making their total six.

Should Bedell and Butler get second and third places they will score seven points and win out. It will be necessary for Logan to get better than fourth for his team to win, in spite of MacLean being on it.

It can be seen that MacLean has his work cut out for him to win and help out his team-mate, Logan, to beat the others.

It will be the first appearance of Bedell, the Long Island crack, who became a great favorite in the Hub on account of his fast work on the indoor track.

With four men behind the motors on the track at one time, it will furnish a spectacular race for the bike fans.

AILSA CRAIG WINS THE CUP

HAMILTON, Bermuda, June 10.—All doubt as to whether the Ailsa Craig would win the cup in the motor boat race from New York to this port was dispelled to-day, when the Irene II., which had been given a time allowance of seventeen hours and twenty minutes, failed to put in an appearance.

The Irene II. is supposed to be held back by head seas.

YALE VS. LOUISIANA.

NEW HAVEN, June 10.—The nine will to-day play its last exhibition game of the season. The game will be with the Louisiana State University nine. Yale will use Howard Jones in the box and the rest of the team will be made up the same as in the last two games with Princeton.

WILLIAM T. A "RINGER" ON SPEEDWAY

Young Clon, 2:13¼, has been "ringing" in the matinees of the Dorchester Driving Club at the Franklin Field Speedway this season in the slow classes under the name of William T., and is the property of William T. Abbott, one of the leaders of the select driving club.

Mr. Abbott bought the fast pacer of Charles Thing of Somerville, reported to be a relative, but when the fact was established that he was "ringing" in the matinees he made the statement to the club that it was no fault of his, as he bought the gelding with the guarantee that he had no record.

The fact of the "ringing" escapade for ribbons only has caused immense excitement among the members of the organization, it being the second time since its inception nine years ago that a horse has been raced under a false name in the races.

President Walter E. Newbert says that nothing of moment will be done against Abbott, but his entry in the slow class at Combination Park, in the club's races on June 17, will be thrown out, and were he still of the mind to race will be compelled to start under his correct name of Young Clon in the free-for-all.

ED WILKES PACES TRIAL MILE IN 2:16

Combination Park trainers have given up the plan of taking in the Montreal race meeting this month, but they are stepping their horses along for the meeting at their own track on July 3 and 4, and the prospect of going to Dover, N. H., the following week.

Frank Fox has been the fastest miles of the season over the course, having worked the pacing gelding, Ed Wilkes, 2:13¼, in 2:16, the last half in 1:06½. eH is considered Grand Circuit timber, certain to be heard from when the bell taps and his owner, Jerry Sullivan, is on the ground to see him turn the trick.

King's Heir, the pacer owned by C. Toothaker, has turned the track in 2:16¼, the last half in 1:07. He is to be scudded over the half-mile tracks later on.

Northern Spy, 2:15*, the hero of all the horses that came out of Maine last year, has been worked by Fox in 2:16¼, the last half in 1:06¾. He is in the best of shape and will be turned for the word the first opportunity.

Aintree, 2:10¾, the "dark secret" of the Cox string, has only been asked to pace a trial in 2:17, but the story is out that his trainer is looking to make a "killing" with him at the right moment.

SHIFT MADE IN YALE FOUR

GALES FERRY, Ct., June 10.—A complete shift was announced in the Yale four-oared shells to-day. The first boat now is rowing: Wallis, 4; Miller, 3; Robbins, 2; Townsend, bow.

The second: Godley, 4; Congdon, 3; Dienny, 2; Wodel, bow.

The wind had subsided to-day, and the crews all went out for short spins. The two four-oared boats had a brush of about a mile, the shell stroked by Wallis winning by a length and a half. They showed up well in their new order.

The varsity and freshman eights rowed downstream together about two miles and had a spurt coming back, the freshmen failing to even make it interesting for the varsity.

TAXICAR CO. TO HAVE FORTY CABS IN BOSTON

By J. C. KERRISON.

The Taxicar Company is shortly to establish a system of public taxicabs in this city, it having already made arrangements for the delivery to the company of something like 40 Atlas two-cycle taxicabs.

Rumors of the formation of the company have been rife for some months back, almost a year, but it was not until two months ago that the matter took definite form. Since then things have progressed somewhat speedily, and it is believed the system will be inaugurated within a few weeks. The head of the new company is Colonel John Caswell, inspector-general of rifle practice in the M. V. M., he occupying the position of president. Frederick Tudor, who was yesterday seen trying out an Elmore taxicab, is the vice president, while Thomas D. Barroll, another gentleman who in the past was prominently identified with the State militia, is the secretary-treasurer. L. K. Clark of New York is the consulting engineer. A line of taxicars will be established which can be rented at a nominal price, say about ten cents for each half-mile traveled, and the stockholders will be given the privilege of purchasing special discount books.

The work of the two Thomas Detroits at the recent hill climb in Worcester was particularly pleasing to the local agents for the Thomas, Whitten-Gilmore Company, who during the past two days have been in receipt of no end of inquiries regarding the cars. Mr. Gilmore said yesterday that hill climbing contests are certainly a valuable adjunct to the industry. They bring out the very best qualities of a car as well as developing its weak points, and a car that can do the consistent work performed by the Thomas entry at Worcester must, even by its competitors, be admitted to be of the highest order. The firm anticipates doing something along the same line at Readville on June 17, being content to place their hopes on one car in that meet. The Blue Bird, which will be driven by Lorimer, is the same car that won signal honors at Worcester.

How, more than any other contest of track or road, the A. A. A. tour for the Glidden trophy has come to be a criterion for the buyers of touring cars, is evidenced by the tangible results in sales noticed by manufacturers. H. O. Smith, of the American Motor Car Manufacturers' Association, says: "It is natural that men who want touring cars should be guided by the performance of cars in this event. To what other can they look? They are not buying cup racers for family use, and the track races offer them nothing in the line of information concerning a car's road efficiency. The demonstrations of a few miles they get are of comparatively little value, as every one knows. What they want to know is, how a car runs day after day, on different sorts of roads, and how it travels in comparison with other cars. This they learn from the Glidden tour, as they do from nothing else, and with the new rules, which the manufacturers have approved, and the system of having observers on the cars, the tour will be of more importance than ever. That the buyers of cars do watch this event and are guided by it can be proven in the most positive way. I know of many sales that can be traced as directly due to the showing made in the Glidden tour last year."

Things are to be done on a scale of elaboration never before known in connection with such events at the National Good Roads and Legislative Convention to be held at Buffalo, July 6, 7 and 8. The practical demonstrations will be in the nature of a complete education. A total of seventy-nine miles of road, costing upwards of $700,000, will be in actual course of construction, affording highway officers, contractors and others an unusual object lesson. The road making will comprise highways of brick, macadam and gravel, and subsequently these various surfaces will be tested with different dust preventives. That this practical work will be as thorough as the entertaining, which is in charge of the Buffalo Automobile Club, is assured by the fact that it is in charge of a committee of very practical men, namely:

George C. Diehl, county engineer, Buffalo, chairman; Frederic Skene, State engineer of New York; John P. Kelly, division engineer, State of New York; F. H. Williams, resident engineer State of New York; Joseph W. Hunter, vice-president, American Roadmakers' Association and highway commissioner of Pennsylvania; W. E. McClintock, chairman of highway commission, Massachusetts; H. S. Sisson, chairman Erie County Board of Supervisors, Good Roads Committee; John Satterfield, Automobile Club of Buffalo; Seymour P. White, Automobile Club of Buffalo; J. S. McFarland, Automobile Club of Buffalo; James D. Warren, Automobile Club of Buffalo; Henry P. Burgard, Automobile Club of Buffalo, and C. M. Croiner, Automobile Club of Buffalo.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

Fire Losses on Pianos

A slight blistering of the cases by the heat is quickly remedied—a thorough scraping and rubbing down and revarnishing in our repair dept. makes the piano as good as new—a thorough inspection of all the parts, and then our expert tuner completes the job—then the beautiful piano is sent to our sacrifice floor and the economical buyer gets a fine instrument for almost nothing. All makes have been coming in—the best pianos in the world—and are sacrificed at once.

TAILOR MADE SUITS
$15, $18, $20
MADE TO ORDER FOR
$40, $45, $50, $60.

THE 300 SUITS sent us by GEORGE'S, of New York, for quick sale this week are the GREATEST VALUES EVER OFFERED IN BOSTON. They are in gray, blue, brown, tan, olive and the new gray green and bronze gray, and other shades. Custom made for $40, $45, $50 and $60, they were originally marked $18, $20, $22. This is the first time in our long business career that we have reduced prices during season. The backward season, which has caused the tailor to have twice the usual number of garments refused or uncalled for, has crowded GEORGE'S, of New York, and this is why so many garments have come to us at one time for immediate sale. Never before were such values offered in Boston. See our windows and judge us by what they say. GEORGE'S TAILOR PARLORS, 14 SUMMER STREET, Near Washington. Open Saturday night. Outlets in 3 cities and largest dispensers in the world in merchant tailors' uncalled for goods.

Form All the GOOD Habits You Can

Habits Are Labor Savers and Trouble Savers. Habit in SLEEP Is Especially Useful

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

One of our readers, Mr. R. R., asks for an editorial on a newspaper clipping which interests him. Here is the clipping:

> It seems to me we make a mistake in prescribing special hours for going to bed and for getting up. Why should we thus gorge ourselves with slumber? Why should we not follow the example of the dog and take an occasional nap when we have nothing better to do? Why should we go to bed when we don't feel sleepy? Why should we not take forty winks when inclined thereto? It strikes me there is too much method and regularity about our somniferous arrangements.—ASHBY-STERRY IN LONDON GRAPHIC.

Mr. Ashby-Sterry's idea is a poor idea. We should not advise a man to imitate a dog in anything—not even in his friendship. For the dog's friendship is stupid, it lacks discrimination, it is absolutely devoid of ambition. It is the friendship of an humble slave standing kicks and abuse in return for food and a bed.

The dog is, generally speaking, a bad example for man from beginning to end. And he is a bad example in his "occasional naps" as in other things.

Men should avoid as far as possible doing any important thing, "OCCASIONALLY." The man who does things "occasionally" rarely does anything thoroughly or satisfactorily. Habits, as we have often told you, are extremely important. BAD habits are dangerous, GOOD habits are absolutely necessary.

It is important in all the regular doings of life to get accustomed to a regular routine. The man who eats, sleeps and exercises at the same hours every day is certainly fifty per cent. better off in health than the man who does those things irregularly.

Man is an invisible, impalpable, thinking, planning spirit locked up in a body. The body is simply a machine like any other machine. It is in fact a mechanical city. The human body is a great city containing thousands of millions of living creatures. It has its telegraph system, called the nerves, and its sewerage system. It is dominated by a government which we call the mind.

The human machine or material city should be run by regular laws and regular habits. Eat at regular hours, that the gastric juices necessary to digest the food may automatically be supplied at the same time. Sleep at regular hours, AND SLEEP AS MUCH AS YOU FEEL LIKE SLEEPING. It is a bad sign to sleep too long, except in childhood. In childhood, the more sleep the better. And parents who wake their children for any purpose whatever are foolish and ignorant.

Instead of WAKING a child in the morning PUT HIM TO BED EARLIER AT NIGHT.

The adult should not sleep more than eight hours a day on the average, after twenty-five years of age. There are a few exceptions. Some thin, nervous temperaments can do with less sleep. Some fat, lymphatic men and women need more sleep. After fifty, seven hours are enough, after seventy, six or five hours will do.

But if you think that you are sleeping too much, don't imagine that you can cure yourself BY DIMINISHING THE AMOUNT OF SLEEP. The trouble when you sleep too much is with your liver usually. Don't cut off your sleep; fix up your liver. If your liver demands more sleep it ought to have it. Fix your liver so that it will not want more sleep.

Whatever you do, just ignore the foolish advice of Mr. Ashby-Sterry. Never be OCCASIONAL or casual. BE REGULAR. WORK at regular hours, PLAY at regular hours, EXERCISE at regular hours, SLEEP and EAT at regular hours.

In this way the machine in which your mind dwells will last longer, work more smoothly and give you better results.

Whatever you do by habit means a saving of mental effort. For instance, you run up and down stairs in the dark THROUGH HABIT. Your feet do it for you; you don't have to think. Suppose you had to think of every step as you went up and down. Suppose in writing you had to think of every letter when you write a word.

Habit is the great time-saver. Cultivate GOOD HABITS, fight desperately BAD HABITS, and good luck to you in cultivation and in fighting.

The New Commandment

"Let Go the Cross"—Gertrude Runshon

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

I HEARD a strange voice in the distance calling
As from a star an echo might be falling.

It spoke four syllables, concise and brief,
Charged with a God-sent message of relief:

Let go the Cross! Oh, you who cling to sorrow,
Hark to the new command and comfort borrow.

Even as the Master left His cross below
And rose to Paradise, let go, let go.

Forget your wrongs, your troubles and your losses,
For with the tools of thought we build our crosses.

Forget your griefs, all grudges and all fear
And enter Paradise—its gates are near.

Heaven is a realm by loving souls created,
And hell was fashioned by the hearts that hated.

Love, hope and trust; believe all joys are yours.
Life pays the soul whose confidence endures

The blows of adverse fate, by larger pleasures,
As after storms the soil yields fuller measures.

Let go the cross; roll self—the stone—away
And dwell with Love in Paradise to-day.

Little Editorials from the People

HOW TO ENROLL WITH THE INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

How may I become an enrolled voter in the Independence League so that I may act with the party this Fall?

Boston. R. A. V.

If you are a registered voter, but not enrolled as a Republican or Democrat, you may vote with the Independence League party in the joint primaries. By so voting you become enrolled as a member of the Independence League party.

Voters enrolled as Republicans or Democrats may change their enrollment to the Independence League party by going to the office of the Election Commissioners at No. 1 Old Courthouse, and by requesting in writing to have their party designation so changed.

The office of the Election Commissioners is open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. except on Saturday, when it closes at 1 p. m.

You must visit the commissioners before June 24 to participate in the State election primaries.

Voters living in Cambridge, Somerville, Medford, Lowell, Lawrence, Gloucester, Chelsea, Newton, Quincy, Waltham, Groveland and Middleboro must apply to the city or town clerk.

Having written for this information, you must realize that this changing of one's party enrollment is an important matter, not to be forgotten or slighted, but to be attended to promptly.

We would suggest that when you change your enrollment you induce your friends who favor honest political parties to change their enrollment. For further information consult the secretary of the Independence League at room No. 348, Old South building.

URGES CRUSADE ON MOSQUITOES

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Now that Summer is here and coincident with its advent the annual invasion of the mosquito, would it not be wise for the authorities to take some action toward exterminating these pests and safeguarding the lives of the millions who are exposed to the danger of infection?

In the course of the Winter several meetings were held by scientists of this and other cities when plans were discussed for mosquito extermination. Many theories were advanced and a number of these were so simple and inexpensive that they could readily be put to a practical test, thus demonstrating that the health authorities are sincere in their desire to protect those whose tax assessments go toward paying their salaries. Lesson I.—The Ocean.

THE O-cean is a large Bod-y of Salt Wa-ter and is use-ful to all Na-tions ex-cept America to sail Ships on. It is al-so used on Beach-es for bathing and catch-ing Soft Shell Crabs. Be-sides this it is use-ful to ad-dress Po-ems to.

It is ver-y en-joy-able to be in the O-cean when you are Bath-ing, but if you Fall In by mistake it seems much wet-ter.

Ev-er-y child should learn to Swim. It is ver-y eas-y, if swall-ow-ing a Gal-lon of Salt Wa-ter does not make you Sick. The best way is to im-i-tate a Weak-fish.

Besides be-ing use-ful for sail-ing Ships, the O-cean is al-so used by Sir Thom-as Lip-ton to lose Yacht Races on.

A Good Child will nev-er an-noy the O-cean by throw-ing Stones or Sticks at it. The O-cean is Rest-less e-nough with-out hav-ing to dodge bricks. It is made for man-y, man-y years.

If it were not for the O-cean there would be no beach-es, and count-less Thou-sands would have to get in-side Mov-ing Picture Shows in the Cit-y in-stead of at the Shore.

Chil-dren and Clams should be ver-y grate-ful to the O-cean.

Lesson II.—The City.

The Cit-y is a place where thousands of Per-sons jam them-selves into the small-est pos-si-ble Space at the high-est pos-si-ble Cost. The less air and light the People have, the greater the city.

Some great cit-ies of the world are New York, London, Paris and Brooklyn.

New York is noted for Horse cars. Pittsburg Mil-lion-aires, and its Prox-im-ity to A-mer-i-ca. London is cel-e-brated for A-mer-i-can Mil-lion-aires and its Nu-tri-tious fog. Paris is fam-ous for the num-ber of its in-hab-i-tants able to speak French. Brooklyn is noted for being so un-like New York.

Life in a cit-y is bet-ter for the Brain than life in the Ru-ral Dis-tricts, be-cause if you have any Cash in the Cit-y you must keep your Brain work-ing or some one will re-move it in a Deft Way.

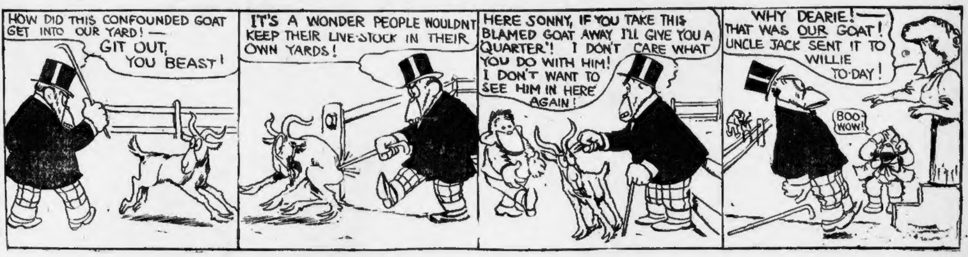
On the Farm the Man has no one to Tramp upon his Toes and Poke El-bows in his Ribs, and he can-not stand the De-pri-va-tion. He longs for the Gay Life of the Cit-y, where the E-lec-tric Fan hums loud-er over the glass than the Bee over the Blos-som.

Is not the Cit-y a fun-ny place?

The wife is the keeper of her husband's soul.—ARABIAN.

GROUCHO THE MONK LOSES HIS GOAT

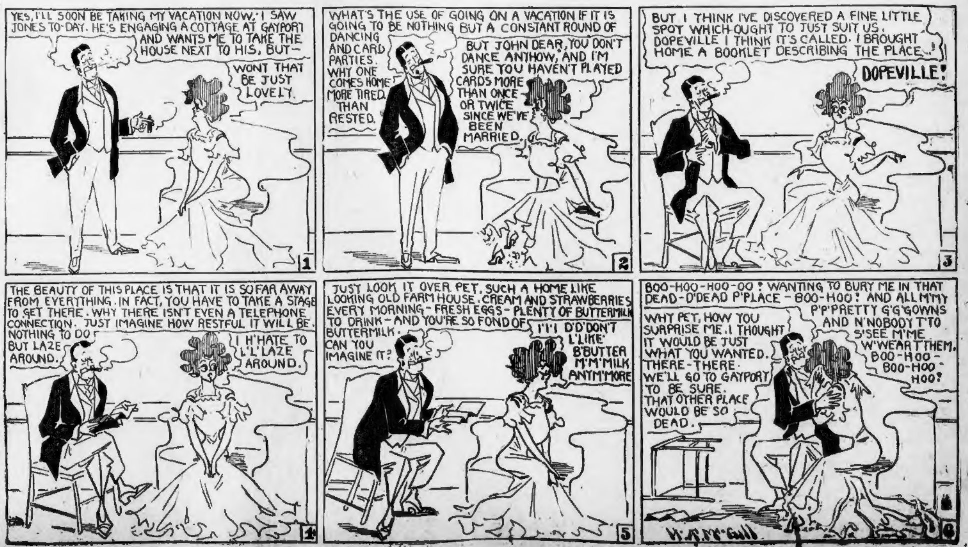
Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner



HOW DID THIS CONFOUNDED GOAT GET INTO OUR YARD! — GIT OUT, YOU BEAST!
IT'S A WONDER PEOPLE WOULDNT KEEP THEIR LIVE-STOCK IN THEIR OWN YARDS!
HERE SONNY, IF YOU TAKE THIS BLAMED GOAT AWAY I'LL GIVE YOU A QUARTER! I DON'T CARE WHAT YOU DO WITH HIM! I DON'T WANT TO SEE HIM IN HERE AGAIN!
WHY DEARIE! — THAT WAS OUR GOAT! UNCLE JACK SENT IT TO WILLIE TO-DAY!
BOO-WOW!

OH, WHAT'S THE USE!

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner



YES, I'LL SOON BE TAKING MY VACATION NOW. I SAW JONES TO-DAY. HE'S ENGAGING A COTTAGE AT GAYPORT AND WANTS ME TO TAKE THE HOUSE NEXT TO HIS, BUT—
WONT THAT BE JUST LOVELY.
1
WHAT'S THE USE OF GOING ON A VACATION IF IT IS GOING TO BE NOTHING BUT A CONSTANT ROUND OF DANCING AND CARD PARTIES. WHY ONE COMES HOME MORE TIRED THAN RESTED.
BUT JOHN DEAR, YOU DON'T DANCE ANYHOW, AND I'M SURE YOU HAVEN'T PLAYED CARDS MORE THAN ONCE OR TWICE SINCE WE'VE BEEN MARRIED.
2
BUT I THINK I'VE DISCOVERED A FINE LITTLE SPOT WHICH OUGHT TO JUST SUIT US. DOPEVILLE I THINK IT'S CALLED. I BROUGHT HOME A BOOKLET DESCRIBING THE PLACE.
DOPEVILLE!
3
THE BEAUTY OF THIS PLACE IS THAT IT IS SO FAR AWAY FROM EVERYTHING. IN FACT, YOU HAVE TO TAKE A STAGE TO GET THERE. WHY THERE ISN'T EVEN A TELEPHONE CONNECTION. JUST IMAGINE HOW RESTFUL IT WILL BE. NOTHING TO DO BUT LAZE AROUND.
I H'HATE TO L'L'LAZE AROUND.
4
JUST LOOK IT OVER PET. SUCH A HOME LIKE LOOKING OLD FARM HOUSE. CREAM AND STRAWBERRIES EVERY MORNING — FRESH EGGS — PLENTY OF BUTTERMILK TO DRINK — AND YOU'RE SO FOND OF BUTTERMILK. CAN YOU IMAGINE IT?
I'I'I D'D'DON'T L'LIKE B'BUTTER M'M'MILK ANYM'MORE
5
BOO-HOO-HOO-OO! WANTING TO BURY ME IN THAT DEAD-D'DEAD P'PLACE — BOO-HOO! AND ALL M'MY P'P'PRETTY G'G'GOWNS AND N'NOBODY T'TO S'SEE M'ME W'WEAR T'THEM. BOO-HOO-BOO-HOO-HOO!
WHY PET, HOW YOU SURPRISE ME. I THOUGHT IT WOULD BE JUST WHAT YOU WANTED. THERE-THERE. WE'LL GO TO GAYPORT TO BE SURE. THAT OTHER PLACE WOULD BE SO DEAD.
